LEGION CHOOSES "JIM" DRAIN AS NEW COMMANDER

Receives A Sufficient Number Of Votes On First Ballot

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 19. (AP)—Prominent in the work of the American Legion since its inception, James A. Drain, of Washington, D. C., was chosen national commander of that organization at the concluding session of its sixth annual convention here today.

Besides electing overwhelmingly the new commander, the convention chose five national vice-commanders, unanimously and named Father Joseph L. O'Connell, of Durand, Ill., a Catholic priest, national chaplain.

O'Connell previously had been selected for the 1925 convention. "One of the most successful conventions we have held," one of the legion officials said, "terminating it 'appropriate after a year of great work under National Commander John R. Quinn,' who surrendered his post of duty as commander just before his death."

A man whose close study and practice of military problems brought him, thru special commission, a place in the American Expeditionary Force, despite a tremendous physical handicap, "I lead the legion for the next year."

Loss of his right hand in a hunting accident when he was 30 years old has made "Jim" Drain at 54 unusually interested in the legion's work to aid disabled soldiers, his friends said, explaining that he had devoted more than half his time the past three years to this work.

And in a statement to newspapermen tonight, the new commander emphasized that it is the rehabilitation work that will receive much of his attention—that and the child welfare program of the legion. His interest in children is natural, he says, for he has six.

"For God and Country," epitomizes Commander Drain's thought on the purpose and aims of the legion, and in carrying out this purpose, he said, "there will be no trades, no friendship favors, no politics," in his administration. "Without partisanship in politics, without intolerance in religion making as we always have, the care of our disabled comrades our first concern."

For the greater part of the first six months of his administration, the new commander will give close attention to the work of the organization, headquarters at Indianapolis, where he will establish his residence within ten days.

"Where improvement can be made in the organization headquarters, I hope to make it," he said. For the last three months of his administration he hopes to arrange a tour that will take him to every state department. He will sever his connection with his Washington law firm at once.

Jim Drain, who was born in Warren county, Illinois, in 1870, was 16 years old when he joined a farm near Lincoln, Neb., when he decided a college education was not worth while, despite his father's insistence.

But a few years later when he was employed as private secretary to a railroad president in the state of Washington, he studied and read law twenty hours a week for two years, working in his room at night, until he was able to pass the bar examination. From Seattle he moved to New York in 1906 and two years later moved to Washington, D. C. But during his residence in the state of Washington, he had advanced from a private in the state national guard to a lieutenant general. During the Spanish-American War, General Drain volunteered for active service and was commissioned a captain of infantry, but did not get to the front. It was his long military experience that enabled him to "get into the big fight" despite the handicap of having only one hand.

Many Decorations

He was an executive officer of the first division and later held a similar post in the tank corps. For two years he was American member of the Anglo-American tank commission. His decorations for war service include the Distinguished Service Medal, the Cross of the Legion of Honor, and the Cross of the King of Italy. General Drain was a member of the original command in Paris that formulated the general plan for the American Legion. He served two terms as department commander of the District of Columbia, and has been a member of the national executive committee.

While Commander Drain was opposed by E. B. Spafford of New York and John H. McQuigg of Cleveland, he received 715 votes on the first and only bal-

COMPERS SAYS LABOR WILL AID LAFOLLETTE AS FAR AS POSSIBLE

Denies That Attempt Will Be Made To Deliver Labor Vote

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. (AP)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette independent presidential candidate returning to Washington today after a conference with Samuel Compers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Senator LaFollette who spoke in Madison Square Garden last night plans to return to New York Saturday to address the Steuben Society.

Mr. Compers was in conference with the candidate for nearly an hour and later announced that the federation of labor intended to "do everything within honor" in the contest of the LaFollette-Whelan ticket.

The labor leader asserted that if his health permitted he would make a series of speeches in behalf of Senator LaFollette and Wheeler. His health, he explained, was greatly improved, but his physicians did not think he was yet in shape to do active campaigning.

Discussing his conference with Senator LaFollette, Mr. Compers said it was ridiculous to say that an attempt was being made to deliver the labor vote to the senator.

"No one with an ounce of brains," Mr. Compers continued, "believes we can deliver a single vote. The only vote I can deliver is my own and that goes for LaFollette and Wheeler."

The labor leader declared that he had no pretense of being a "housewife" as the laboring man was "housewife" as their "debtors" in many instances have been at variance with party platforms, and, in Mr. Compers' opinion, are not binding on their parties.

Several labor leaders, among them, Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor and John P. Connelley, secretary of the New York Central Trades and Labor Council accompanied Mr. Compers when he called on Senator LaFollette.

POLICEMAN'S WIDOW IS NOT OPPOSED TO GRANT'S PETITION

Lack Of Money May Handicap Boy In Plea For Commutation

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. (AP)—Bernard Grant, 20 years old, whose hair has turned white since he was sentenced to be hanged October 17 for the murder of Ralph Souders, a policeman, during a tea store holdup, will find no opposition from the policeman's widow in asking a commutation to life imprisonment before Governor Small.

Mrs. Souders, with a four year old babe tugging at her skirts and another one in her arms, made this plain today.

"Whatever the law decides to do with Bernard Grant and Walter Kraus, his companion, will be all right with me," she said. "Whether these boys hang or go to prison makes little difference to me; no matter what is done, nothing can bring back my husband."

Clarence Darrow, veteran chief of defense in the trial of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb who probably make an appeal next week for Grant, Grant's attorney indicated.

LEOPOLD AND LOEB WOULD BE TEACHERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. (AP)—Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, serving life sentences in the state penitentiary at Joliet for kidnapping and slaying young Robert Franks have applied for positions as instructors in the prison night school. It became known here today. "Unless they commit some infringement of prison regulations, penitentiary officials indicated they might get the jobs which would add three hours to their working day. They would continue to do manual labor from 7 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. prison officials said and would teach in the prison night school from 6 p. m. until 9 a. m. if their request is granted."

lot, and his selection, then was made unanimous. Spafford received 96 votes and McQuigg 112.

Five national vice-commanders then selected were chosen by acclamation and without opposition, and are:

Ernest Armstrong, Connecticut; Frank McFarland, Kansas; A. L. Perry, Panama; William Stone, North Dakota and Peyton H. Hoag, Kentucky.

WILBUR REFUSES TO COMMENT ON HURRIED RECALL

Is Believed Navy Budget Main Subject To Be Discussed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. (AP)—Arriving in Washington today, Secretary Wilbur refused to comment upon any of the events which led to the termination of his western inspection tour upon request from the white house. Surrounded by newspapermen when he left his train, the secretary would only say that he intended to get in touch with the white house as soon as he had come to his residence and wished to go to the office. To all questions he simply shook his head. Secretary Wilbur, shortly after his arrival, however, talked by phone with a Bascom Slump, secretary to the president and arranged to confer with the president at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Mr. Slump told the secretary the president would be glad to see him either tonight or tomorrow and the latter date was set.

After communicating with the white house and stopping briefly at his residence, the secretary went to his office at the department where he held a short conference with Assistant Secretary Foran and Rear-Admiral Strauss, the budget officer of the navy.

Admiral Strauss went to Harpersburg this morning to meet Mr. Wilbur and accompanied him back to Washington, so he could give him latest details of the controversy between the department and Budget Director Lord.

The return of Mr. Wilbur ends, at least, a week ahead of schedule, a tour of naval stations on the west coast, which already had occupied more than a month. Urgent importance was attached to the termination of the trip when Mr. Wilbur announced that he had been requested by President Coolidge to return from important conferences and jump by airplane to a junction point where he could overtake a transcontinental train.

In a white house statement it was declared the budget as it affected the navy was the subject upon which Mr. Wilbur's views were sought, but subsequently this was elaborated by a statement from a spokesman for the president who said other matters of importance concerning the navy would be taken up.

NO LOST BATTALIONS IN DEMOCRATIC PARTY

GARY, Ind., Sept. 19. (AP)—A declaration of intent to do but the "in every state in the union" a renewed assault on privilege in government and a vigorous appeal for devotion to those "fundamental principles of human equality, personal liberty and popular sovereignty," were predominant in the opening address here tonight by John W. Davis, in his campaign in Indiana.

And cheers from an audience of several thousands gathered in this industrial center of Northern Indiana, Mr. Davis declared that he did not consider victory as stated to the adversaries of the Democratic party.

DAWES MAKES APPEAL FOR COMMON SENSE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19. (AP)—An appeal for "common sense consideration" of the agricultural problem free from "political poison" was combined with an attack on the LaFollette Independent candidacy in an address made here tonight by Charles G. Dawes, the Republican candidate for vice-president.

Advised by Republican leaders of the state today that the LaFollette Independent candidacy represented the principal barrier to Republican success in South Dakota in November, Mr. Dawes at the beginning of his address temporarily cast aside his prepared speech on agriculture and launched an attack on Senator LaFollette.

He declared Senator LaFollette, by his advocacy of congressional raised a great issue, the greatest issue that can come to any country, the issue of the constitution of the United States.

BLIND AND DEAF GIRL GIVES PIANO RECITAL

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 19. Helen Mary Martin of Geneva, Ill., in all the 20 years of her life has never heard a sound, nor seen a single object, yet today she gave a recital on the piano at the St. Charles high school. She is said to be the only living person, deaf and blind, accomplished on the instrument.

Pershing Delivers His Formal Farewell

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. (AP)—General John J. Pershing's formal farewell to the army, written in the form of the last general order he signed on his birthday, September 13, which will be read to every army organization by the officer commanding at the first parade formation after it is received, was made public today at the war department. It is addressed to "My Comrades" and bears the simple signature "John J. Pershing," without other indication of his rank than the heading at the top, "General of The Armies."

"No words seem adequate to express to you the conflicting emotions that I feel upon reaching the date which officially marks the termination of my active service," General Pershing wrote. "Our experiences together have been varied. We have withstood the same hardships and shared the same pleasures. We have faced discouragements and rejoiced over victories."

"Today the recollections that I have of the past years of my life with a deep sense of gratitude to you all an affectionate farewell."

SHANGHAI SURRENDER IS ADMITTED TO BE ENTIRELY POSSIBLE

Report That Chekiang Soldiers Are In Retreat Is Denied

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19. (AP)—Surrender of Shanghai to the Kuomintang armies seeking to capture it was admitted this morning at headquarters of the defenders at Lungwha to be a possibility.

It was asserted, however, that contrary to common reports, the defending Chekiang soldiers were not in retreat.

The Kuomintang statement, which declared that Chekiang fighters were being driven back by the Kuomintang forces, was virtually denied by the Kuomintang forces, who said they were not in retreat.

While the order forbidding the Kuomintang forces from approaching the fighting lines made dependent information hard to get, it was evident that heavier artillery than that previously used had been brought up to the aid of the Kuomintang forces to their with strong reinforcements.

Tokio, Sept. 19. (AP)—In a communique issued in the morning, the Japanese government announced that the Kuomintang forces had been driven back by the Kuomintang forces to their with strong reinforcements.

Canton, Sept. 19. (AP)—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the Southern Chinese leader has concentrated approximately 10,000 troops at Shingchow, according to the headquarters of his army. It is not disclosed, however, how many additional troops he will be able to send forward to take part in the proposed expedition against Chekiang.

Two airplanes were shipped to Shingchow today according to the air service chief. Sun continues to shorten his line of defense along the East river where he is faced by Chen Ching-Ming's old enemy, withdrawing his men to Shingchow, east of Canton.

Sun's headquarters admits that the exchequer is low and that the money promised by Chang Tso-Lin, his Manchurian ally, has not yet arrived.

FARMER FOUND WITH PLENTY OF BOOZIE

Blomington, Ill., Sept. 19. (AP)—A farmer residing between this city and Danvers was arrested yesterday by a sheriff's force. The raid resulted in the finding of 72 pints of home brew, 60 gallons of wine, 26 gallons of white wine and one gallon of old fashioned hots. A wash-bottle still and a kerosene stove used in its operation, some mash at the bottom of a barrel, 125 lbs. of raisins, 150 lbs. of sugar, used in the preparation of the illicit liquor were also confiscated. A truck and two large touring cars were required to bring the evidence to the city. He will have a hearing today.

SEARCH CONTINUED MISSING WORKMEN

Minneapolis, Sept. 19. (AP)—A continued search among debris which buried four men in a sewer excavation here Wednesday for the bodies of two men, William Bellon and John Miller, both of Detroit, has so far proved futile.

One man, Otto Chas. is recovering in a hospital while Joseph Thiel, after rescue.

A civil investigation was set today into the cause of responsibility.

DALLAS TENDERS ARMY AVIATORS GRAND OVATION

Slow Time From Mus- kogee Account Of Head Wind

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 19. (AP)—Dallas paused today to welcome the six intercontinental army aviators who are now on the last few stages of the history making around the world flight.

More than 7,500 Dallas citizens were at Love Field, six miles from the city, the official landing place of the fliers and as Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith the flight commander, Lieutenant Leigh Wade and Lieutenant Erik Nelson, who brought their planes to the ground, a mighty cheer went up.

The flight from Muskogee to Dallas was made in three hours and 54 minutes, a total of 225 miles. This was considered, less than the average speed maintained in other jumps of the flight, the lengthened time being caused by a strong head wind which the fliers were forced to battle with almost constantly from Muskogee to Dallas.

The fliers were piloted to Love Field by a squadron of twelve or more planes, which met the fliers after they had passed by Sherman, six miles north of Dallas.

The men were first greeted by a large number of former buddies and then by the official welcoming committee headed by the mayor of Dallas, Louis Blylock, and Charles Saville, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

A banquet at which the Chamber of Commerce was host and a theater party which met the fliers at the airport, included on the evening's gaieties arranged especially for the fliers.

Lieutenant Smith announced tonight that the fliers would follow the right of way of the Texas and Pacific Railroad from Dallas to El Paso the next overnight stop, tomorrow.

The flight to El Paso will be made after the fliers have been thoroughly serviced and inspected and depending upon the weather reports.

The contemplated itinerary of the fliers from El Paso, with a stop over in each of the towns named is:

El Paso to Tucson, Ariz.; to Rockwell Field, San Diego, Calif.; to Cloverfield, Los Angeles to Fresno, Calif.; to San Francisco, to Eugene, Oregon; to Seattle, Washington, the last milestone in the journey.

No set schedule will be followed, but no time will be wasted, depending upon the condition of the planes, Lieutenant Smith said.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE STICKS TO HIS DESK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. (AP)—President Coolidge remained close to his desk today meeting with his cabinet, working some on speeches and listening to reports on campaign developments from several sources. Representative Johnson of Washington, reported that although Senator LaFollette, independent candidate was making a strong fight in the northwestern states, the Republican ticket was ahead in the race to day. Like other recent reports, it contained advice to voters that territory closely held by the Kuomintang.

As usual the president indicated little to his callers of his feelings either in regard to the recent speeches of the other presidential candidates or of his own plans. He has not decided on the program he will pursue next month, aside from remaining fairly close to his office. Advisers are divided in their opinion as to the prospects for Mr. Coolidge to speak in some midwestern cities.

The president took under consideration today an invitation from John Clay, president of the Livestock Exposition, to attend the exposition in Chicago from November 29 to December 6.

MRS. OUPHANT CHOSEN AUXILIARY PRESIDENT

ST. PAUL, Sept. 19. (AP)—Mrs. O. D. Ouphant of Trenton, N. J., was elected national auxiliary president of the American Legion auxiliary at today's session of the auxiliary's national convention here.

National vice-presidents were elected as follows:

Mrs. Jennie S. O'Connell, Oklahoma, western division; Mrs. W. H. Moore, Illinois, central division; Mrs. Eugene H. H. North, North Dakota, northwestern division; Mrs. E. W. Hart, North Carolina, southern division; and Mrs. Corinne Conklin, Vermont, eastern division.

Mrs. Ouphant, who succeeded Mrs. Frank E. Bishop of Boston, organized the New Jersey auxiliary in 1920 and served as department vice president for two years, and since has been a member of the national legislative committee.

SOUTH DAKOTA SAID TO BE ON VERGE OF LEAVING LAFOLLETTE

Neither He Nor Davis Have Impressed Labor, Says West

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. (AP)—James J. Davis, secretary of labor, T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board and former president of the International Longshoremen's Union, and regular Republicans from Wisconsin and the Dakotas called at headquarters of the Republican national committee here today.

Following the visit of the last named, Roy O. West, secretary of the national committee, said reports reaching him of late indicated a changing trend in South Dakota, where there has been strong LaFollette sentiment toward Coolidge.

Mr. West added that news, however, reaching him of the LaFollette sentiment, was not sufficient to support that opinion regarding the state in which Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes was to speak tonight.

John W. Davis has failed utterly to impress labor, said Secretary Davis, who is scheduled to make a number of speeches, and was here conferring with Chairman William M. Butler and the speaker's bureau. "He has offered not one constructive proposal, he has been a fault finder. Labor knows that a vote for Coolidge is a vote for the continuation now being so dangerously assailed and for a common sense government, that a vote for Davis is a vote for disaster."

"Labor has every reason to be satisfied under a Republican administration. It controls thirty states, banks and trust companies across the country."

SUBLET STARTS TASK OF LAYING TO REST REMAINS OF MINERS

Inquiry To Be Held After Other Eleven Bodies Are Found

SUBLET, Wyo., Sept. 19. (AP)—Result of 39 of its citizens as a result of an explosion in one of its largest coal mines, Sublet today started the task of burying its dead, while county officers await recovery of eleven bodies in the shattered workings of the mine before beginning an inquiry into the cause of the blast.

Over the two crowded morning hours, beginning today, bodies of the 28 dead recovered, will be taken to private homes, where the four little children of the miner, for the last time, will be seen.

Two funerals will be held today, although the majority will be held Sunday, the date set for a great public memorial service at Kemmerer, to commemorate the lives of the men lost in an explosion in the mine number five of the Kemmerer Coal Co., Tuesday morning.

It is the hope of the O. D. F. fellows and Moose Lodges in Kemmerer, have made preparations for services at the graves of members lost in the disaster.

Four of the caskets are flag draped in honor of men who served their country during the world war. In one of the bodies of Dan Merick, who served in three major engagements with the American expeditionary forces and who came through these engagements unscathed. He is survived by a widow.

Reports early today indicate that none of the eleven remaining in the mine will be recovered during the day because of the masses of earth and rock that blocked the passageways.

If all the bodies are removed by Monday, a coroner's jury will be empaneled and the taking of testimony started to fix the cause and blame for the disaster.

GRAND JURY TO HEAR EVIDENCE AGAINST HIGHT

Mount Vernon Minister Waives Examination; Goes To Jail

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 19. (AP)—County officials backed by a number of local and some extrajurisdictional residents, continued their efforts today to link more evidence about the Rev. L. M. Hight in the investigation of the death of his wife Anna and his congregation member, Wilford Swetnam in 1912, 12 miles south of here.

In the meantime in Metropolis, a small group of men were engaged with the examination of the body of the clergyman's wife, on the order of the prosecuting attorney in order to examine the body more thoroughly for probable traces of poison.

Importance has been placed by the prosecuting authorities upon the forthcoming report of a chemist who has been instructed to analyze the contents of the stomach of Swetnam who died nearly two months ago under mysterious circumstances. Poisoning was the coroner's verdict.

Of no less importance is considered a further examination of the viscera of Mrs. Hight, in whose stomach, according to a chemist's report, poison was found in sufficient quantities to cause her death. Another link in the chain of circumstantial evidence upon which the clergyman's arrest was based, was furnished by the finding of a box in the minister's home which, it has been reported, had contained poison of the same kind as found in the stomach of Mrs. Hight.

It had been bought to kill rats, the clergyman has explained. Rev. Hight who has borne the burden of suspicion with stoicism, has insisted that he is innocent and not guilty of any such charges claiming it is the work of bootleggers and whose enmity he had incurred by his preaching from the pulpit.

Rev. Hight waived a preliminary hearing this morning and he was remanded to jail while the matter will be placed before the grand jury for further action. Another incident which the prosecuting authorities have accepted as having some bearing on the case is the presence of the clergyman in the Swetnam home during the ten day illness of Swetnam.

The minister has repeatedly denied that he had given the patient medicine of any kind. He gave the patient water he said and then only at the sick man's request.

DAVIS TO CONDUCT WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. (AP)—A whirlwind campaign thru the east is to be conducted by John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee, before he strides back into the west for a second drive for votes in that territory.

He was added upon today at the conference the nomination of the chief marshal, Clem L. Shaver. The only eastern states river are St. Frederick and Baltimore, Md., both on October 1, but under present plans Mr. Davis will speak at Boston, Providence, New York City, and Delaware.

From Baltimore the nominee will again strike westward for West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Southern Illinois and Missouri. There also is a possibility that he will speak again in Kansas and will carry his fight into Michigan.

GOMPERS SAYS LABOR WILL AID LAFOLLETTE AS FAR AS POSSIBLE

Denies That Attempt Will Be Made To Deliver Labor Vote

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. (AP)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette independent presidential candidate returned to Washington today after a conference with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Senator LaFollette who spoke in Madison Square Garden last night plans to return to New York Saturday to address the Steuben Society.

WILBUR REFUSES TO COMMENT ON HURRIED RECALL

Is Believed Navy Budget Main Subject To Be Discussed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19. (AP)—Arriving in Washington today, Secretary Wilbur refused to comment upon any of the events which led to the termination of his western inspection tour upon request from the white house. Surrounded by newspapermen when he left his train, the secretary would only say that he intended to get in touch with the white house as soon as he had gone to his residence and washed up. To all questions he simply shook his head. Secretary Wilbur, shortly after his arrival however, talked by phone with C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the president and arranged to confer with the president at 10 a. m., tomorrow.

Mr. Slemp told the secretary the president would be glad to see him either tonight or tomorrow and the latter date was set.

After communicating with the white house and stopping briefly at his residence, the secretary went to his office at the department where he held a short conference with Assistant Secretary Roosevelt and Rear Admiral Strauss, the budget officer of the navy.

Admiral Strauss went to Harborsburg this morning to meet Mr. Wilbur and accompanied him back to Washington, so he could give him latest details of the controversy between the department and Budget Director Lord.

The return of Mr. Wilbur ends, at least, a week ahead of schedule, a tour of naval stations on the west coast, which already had occupied more than a month. Unusual importance was attached to the termination of the trip when Mr. Wilbur announced that he had been requested by President Coolidge to return from important conferences and jump by airplane to a junction point where he could undertake a transcontinental train.

In a white house statement it was declared the budget as it affected the navy, was the subject upon which Mr. Wilbur's views were sought, but subsequently this was elaborated by a statement from a spokesman for the president who said other matters of importance concerning the navy would be taken up.

NO LOST BATTALIONS IN DEMOCRATIC PARTY

GARY, Ind., Sept. 19. (AP)—A declaration of intent to do battle "in every state in the union" a renewed assault on privilege in government and a vigorous appeal for devotion to those "fundamental principles of human equality, personal liberty and popular sovereignty," were predominant in the opening address here tonight by John W. Davis, in his campaign in Indiana.

Amid cheers from an audience of several thousands gathered in his industrial center of Northern Indiana, Mr. Davis declared that he did not concede victory in any state to the adversaries of the Democratic party.

DAVES MAKES APPEAL FOR COMMON SENSE

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Sept. 19. (AP)—An appeal for "common sense consideration" of the agricultural problem free from "political poison" was combined with an attack on the LaFollette independent candidacy in an address made here tonight by Charles G. Daves, the Republican candidate for vice-president.

Advised by Republican leaders of the state today that the LaFollette independent candidacy represented the principal barrier to Republican success in South Dakota in November, Mr. Daves at the beginning of his address temporarily cast aside his prepared speech on agriculture and launched an attack on Senator LaFollette.

He declared Senator LaFollette by his advocacy of congressional raised a great issue, the greatest issue that can come to any country, the issue of the constitution of the United States.

BLIND AND DEAF GIRL GIVES PIANO RECITAL

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 19.—Helen May Martin of Geneva, Ill., in all the 30 years of her life has never heard a sound, nor seen a single object, yet today she gave a recital on the piano at the St. Charles high school. She is said to be the only living person, deaf and blind, accomplished on the instrument.

Pershing Delivers His Formal Farewell

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—General John J. Pershing's formal farewell to the army, written in the form of the last general order he signed on his birthday, September 13, which will be read to every army organization by the commanding officer at the first parade formation after it is received, was made public today at the war department. It is addressed to "My Comrades" and bears the simple signature "John J. Pershing," without other indication of his rank than the heading at the top, "General of The Armies."

"No words seem adequate to express to you the conflicting emotions that I feel upon reaching the date which officially marks the termination of my active service," General Pershing wrote. "Our experiences together have been varied. We have withstood the same hardships and shared the same pleasures. We have faced discouragements and rejoiced over victories."

"Today the recollections that swiftly pass in review fill my heart with a deep sense of gratitude for the loyal service, and warm appreciation of the sincere devotion to the country of the patriotic officers and men with whom it has been my good fortune to be associated during the fleeting years of my army life."

"It is my proud privilege, in parting to say of the men of all ranks who have borne arms under the flag that none has more earnestly wished for peace, yet in defense of right none has ever been imbued with loftier purpose nor more completely consecrated to the maintenance of our ideals."

"My esteem for them and my admiration for their achievements continue to increase with the passing of time. The inspiration of their exalted conception of citizenship and their fulfillment of its obligations should ever assure the preservation of our institutions. The glorious example to their fidelity and courage will be remembered by those who come after us."

"It is with an abiding confidence in our national forces and with the assurance of my lasting interest in the welfare, that I bid you all an affectionate farewell."

SHANGHAI SURRENDER IS ADMITTED TO BE ENTIRELY POSSIBLE

Report That Chekiang Soldiers Are In Retreat Is Denied

SHANGHAI, Sept. 20. (AP)—Surrender of Shanghai to the Kiangsu armies seeking to capture it was admitted this morning at headquarters of the defenders at Lungwha to be a possibility.

It was asserted, however, that contrary to common reports, the defending Chekiang soldiers were not in retreat.

The Lungwha statement, which declared that the Chekiang fighters were inflicting heavy losses on their opponents and capturing many prisoners belonging to Honan and Anhwei regiments, was issued after renewed heavy artillery and machine gun fire had started about 2:30 a. m., along the whole front from Liuhu thru Kiating and Hwangtu to Tsingpu.

While the order keeping observers from approaching the fighting lines made dependable information hard to get, it was evident that heavy artillery than that previously used had been brought up to the aid of the Kiangsu forces together with strong reinforcements.

Tokio, Sept. 19. (AP)—In a communique issued in Mukden, Chang Eso-Lin, the Manchurian leader, claims decisive successes over the forces of the central government of Peking at Jehol, north of Peking and on the Chihli border between Chingchow on the Peking-Mukden railway in Manchuria and Chaoyang in Chihli, according to press dispatches received here.

Canton, Sept. 19. (AP)—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the Southern Chinese leader has concentrated approximately 10,000 troops at Shuichow, according to the headquarters of his army. It is not disclosed however, how many additional troops he will be able to send forward to take part in the proposed expedition against Chekiang.

Two airplanes were shipped to Shuichow today according to the air service chief. Sun continues to shorten his line of defense along the East river where he is faced by Chen Chung-Ming his old enemy, withdrawing his men to Sheklung, east of Canton, where they will be based.

Sun's headquarters admits that the exchequer is low and that the money promised by Chang Tso-Lin, his Manchurian ally, has not yet arrived.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 19.—Leo Wellenriter, a farmer residing between this city and Danvers was arrested yesterday by a sheriff's force. The raid resulted in the finding of 72 pints of home brew, 60 gallons of wine, 26 gallons of white male and one gallon of old fashioned bitters. A wash-bowl still and kerosene stove used in its operation, some mash, 8 gallons of cane syrup, 125 lbs. of raisins, 150 lbs. of sugar, used in the preparation of the illicit liquor, were confiscated. SEARCH CONTINUED FOR MISSING WORKMEN

Milwaukee, Sept. 19.—A continued search among debris which buried four men in a sewer cave in here Wednesday for the bodies of two men, William Belton, and John Milich, both of Detroit, has so far proved futile.

One man, Otto Cina, is recovering in a hospital while Joseph Tica, died after rescue.

A civil investigation was set today into the cause of responsibility.

DALLAS TENDERS ARMY AVIATORS GRAND OVATION

Slow Time From Muskogee Account Of Head Wind

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 19. (AP)—Dallas paused today to welcome the six intrepid army aviators who are now on the last few stages of the history making around the world flight.

More than 7,500 Dallas citizens were at Love Field, six miles from the city, the official landing place of the fliers and as Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, the flight commander, Lieutenant Leigh Wade and Lieutenant Erik Nelson, brought their planes to the ground, a mighty cheer went up.

The flight from Muskogee to Dallas was made in three hours and 54 minutes, a hop of 225 miles. This was considered less than the average speed maintained in other jumps of the flight, the lengthened time being caused by a strong head wind which the fliers were forced to battle with almost constantly from Muskogee to Dallas.

The fliers were piloted to Love Field by a squadron of twelve or more planes, which met the fliers after they had passed by Sherman, sixty miles north of Dallas.

The men were first greeted by a large number of former buddies and then by the official welcoming committee headed by the mayor of Dallas, Louis Blaylock, and Charles Saville, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

A banquet at which the Chamber of Commerce was host and a theater party were included on the evening's gaieties arranged especially for the fliers.

Lieutenant Smith announced tonight that the fliers would follow the right of way of the Texas and Pacific Railroad from Dallas to El Paso the next overnight stop, tomorrow.

The flight to El Paso will begin after the three planes have been thoroughly serviced and inspected and depending upon the weather reports.

The contemplated itinerary of the fliers from El Paso, with a stop over in each of the towns named is:

El Paso to Tucson, Ariz., to Rockwell Field, San Diego, Calif., to Cloverfield, Los Angeles to Crissy Field, San Francisco, to Eugene, Oregon, to Seattle, Washington, the last milestone in the journey.

No set schedule will be followed but no time will be wasted, depending upon the condition of the planes, Lieutenant Smith said.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE STICKS TO HIS DESK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—President Coolidge remained close to his desk today meeting with his cabinet, working some speeches and listening to reports on campaign developments from several callers. Representative Johnson of Washington, reported that although Senator LaFollette, independent candidate was making a strong fight in the northwestern states, the Republican ticket was ahead in the race today. Like other recent reports his contained advice to watch that territory closely in the campaign.

As usual the president indicated little to his callers of his feelings either in regard to the recent speeches of the other presidential candidates or of his own plans. He has not decided on the program he will pursue next month, aside from remaining fairly close to his office. Advisers are divided in their opinion as to the proposals for Mr. Coolidge to speak in some middlewestern cities.

The president took under consideration today an invitation from John Clay, president of the Livestock Exposition, to attend the exposition in Chicago from November 29 to December 6.

Gloria Caruso HAS NEW HALF SISTER
New York, Sept. 19.—Gloria Caruso, daughter of the late Enrico Caruso, has a half sister, Jacqueline Dorothy Ingram.

Jacqueline was born to Mrs. Dorothy Caruso Ingram at a private hospital last night.

Mrs. Ingram, widow of the famous tenor, became the bride of Captain E. Nest Ingram of London a year ago. Last April she confirmed reports that she and the captain had separated, declaring however, that she would bring neither divorce nor separation suit against him. Captain Ingram is believed to be in England.

SEVERE STORM IN MISSOURI REPORTED

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 19. (AP)—Several persons were reported to have been killed and a number injured at Hannapolis, Missouri, during a tornado which swept over southeast Missouri this evening, causing a heavy property damage. According to the meager telephone reports available here the storm centered around Hannapolis and Ellington. The storm swept region is about 150 miles southwest of this city.

SOUTH DAKOTA SAID TO BE ON VERGE OF LEAVING LAFOLLETTE

Neither He Nor Davis Have Impressed Labor, Says West

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. (AP)—James J. Davis, secretary of labor, T. V. O'Connor, chairman of the shipping board and former president of the International Longshoremen's Union, and regular Republicans from Wisconsin and the Dakotas called at headquarters of the Republican national committee here today.

Following the visit of the last named, Roy O. West, secretary of the national committee, said reports reaching him of late indicated a changing trend in South Dakota, where there has been strong LaFollette sentiment, toward Coolidge.

Mr. West added that newspaper clippings reaching his office seemed to him to support that opinion regarding the state in which Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes was to speak tonight.

"John W. Davis has failed utterly to impress labor," said Secretary Davis, who is scheduled to make a number of speeches and was here conferring with Chairman William M. Butler and the speaker's bureau. "He has offered not one constructive proposal—he has been a fault finder. Labor knows that a vote for Coolidge is a vote for the constitution now being so dangerously assailed and for a common sense government, that a vote for Davis is a vote for disaster; that a vote for LaFollette is a vote for failure, utter and complete."

"Labor has every reason to be satisfied under a Republican administration. It controls thirty one banks and trust companies throughout the country."

SUBLET STARTS TASK OF LAYING TO REST REMAINS OF MINERS

Inquiry To Be Held After Other Eleven Bodies Are Found

SUBLET, Wyo., Sept. 19. (AP)—Bereft of 39 of its citizens as a result of an explosion in one of its largest coal mines, Sublet today started the task of burying its dead, while county officers awaited recovery of eleven bodies in the shattered workings of the mine before launching an inquiry into the cause of the blast.

From the two crowded morgues at Sublet, beginning today, bodies of the 28 dead recovered, will be taken to private homes and to the four little churches at Kemmerer for the last rites.

Two funerals will be held today, although the majority will be held Sunday, the date set for a great public memorial service at Kemmerer to commemorate the lives of the men lost in an explosion at Mine number five of the Kemmerer Coal Co., Tuesday morning.

Members of the Odd Fellows and Moose lodges in Kemmerer, have made preparations for services at the graves of members lost in the disaster.

Four of the caskets are flag draped in honor of men who served their country during the world war and the body of Dan Merrick, who served in three major engagements with the American expeditionary forces and who came through those engagements unscathed. He is survived by a widow.

Reports early today indicate that none of the eleven remaining in the mine will be recovered during the day because of the masses of earth and rock that blocked the passages.

If all the bodies are removed by Monday, a coroner's jury will be empaneled and the taking of testimony started to fix the cause and blame for the disaster.

ARMY PLANE FALLS AT HATBOX FIELD

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 19.—An army plane fell 75 feet this afternoon, while taking off from Hatbox field, smashing the engine. Neither the pilot nor the observer was injured.

GRAND JURY TO HEAR EVIDENCE AGAINST HIGHT

Mount Vernon Minister Waives Examination; Goes To Jail

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 19. (AP)—County officials backed by a coroner's verdict and some circumstantial evidence, continued their efforts today to link more evidence about the Rev. L. M. Hight in the investigation of the death of his wife Anna and his congregation member, Wilford Sweetin in Ina, 12 miles south of here.

In the meantime in Metropolis, a small group of men were engaged with the exhumation of the body of the clergyman's wife, on the order of the prosecuting attorney in order to examine the body more thoroughly for probable traces of poison.

Importance has been placed by the prosecuting authorities upon the forthcoming report of a chemist who has been instructed to analyze the contents of the stomach of Sweetin who died nearly two months ago under mysterious circumstances. Potomine poisoning was the coroner's verdict.

Of no less importance is considered a further examination of the viscera of Mrs. Hight, whose stomach, according to a chemist's report, poison was found in sufficient quantities to cause her death. Another link in the chain of circumstantial evidence upon which the clergyman's arrest was ordered, has been furnished by the finding of a box in the minister's home which, it has been reported, had contained poison of the same kind as found in the stomach of Mrs. Hight.

It had been thought to kill rats, the clergyman has explained.

Rev. Hight who has borne the ordeal of suspense with stoicism, has insisted that he is innocent and not guilty of any such charges claiming it is the work of bootleggers and whose enmity he had incurred by his preaching from the pulpit.

Rev. Hight waved a preliminary hearing this morning and he was remanded to jail while the matter will be placed before the grand jury for further action.

Another incident which the prosecuting authorities have accepted as having some bearing on the case is the presence of the clergyman in the Sweetin home during the ten day illness of Sweetin.

The minister has repeatedly denied that he had given the patient medicine of any kind. He gave the patient water he said and then only at the sick man's request.

DAVIS TO CONDUCT WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. (AP)—A whirlwind campaign thru the east is to be conducted by John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee before he strides back into the west for a second drive for votes in that territory.

A conference was decided upon today at a conference the nominee had with his field marshal, Clem L. Shaver. The only eastern dates fixed are at Frederick and Baltimore, Md., both on October 1, but under present plans Mr. Davis will speak at Boston, Providence, New York City and in Delaware.

MRS. COOLIDGE ATTENDS REPUBLICAN MEETING

Washington, Sept. 19. (AP)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge today made her first appearance at a political gathering in the present campaign unaccompanied by her husband.

Leading the president at the white house Mr. Coolidge attended a meeting of the Republican Women's Club of Montgomery county, Maryland which was held at Chakarlhat, the country estate of Charles I. Corby of Washington.

She made no remarks.

their children at home, 127,000 kiddies getting aid this way. An additional 70,000 have been placed in "foster homes" mainly for children who have lost both parents.

Our generation can justifiably be proud of the better care it is giving orphaned children, by state aid. There is no better measure of the degree of a civilization than the care it gives its unfortunate orphans.

THE SALVATION ARMY

The Salvation Army annual campaign for funds for local work will be put on the coming week. Committees have been named in Jacksonville and in the towns of the county. The budget has been carefully worked out and the committees believe that they will have no serious difficulty in securing the funds that are necessary for the continuation of the army's good work.

The Salvation Army, especially since the war time, has continuously held the good will of the people and has been freer from criticism than any other organization for philanthropic or religious work. Its efforts are economically conducted and no one can deny the self-sacrificing service that the men and the women of the army give.

FOREIGN FORCES AT SHANGHAI

Judging from recent dispatches small military units from all nations are ready to play their part, it need be, in the defense of their interest and the protection of the lives of their nationals at Shanghai, where revolution and siege has been raging for several days. Men of the killed clan are lined up with British soldiers under the Union Jack. There are separate companies of American, Portuguese, Jap and Chinese soldiers in the line, while along the rivers, several armored launches manned by nationals of the various countries are patrolling.

There have been times when such little companies stationed in foreign lands as legation guards, have done heroic service. This was true in the Boxer rebellion, and at one time in Mexico City, an American machine gunner had his weapon placed so that it commanded several streets, while he fully expected an attack from battling revolutionaries.

efforts nowadays to get voters out on election days. Two things are being accomplished by these efforts. In the first place, citizens are being aroused to their responsibilities at the polls. In the second place, this effort is bringing to light some of the causes for indifference to the franchise, and improvements in voting methods are likely to follow.

For example, an authoritative survey of non-voters disclosed the following reasons for their neglect:

"They were not interested in 'politics' and felt it did 'no good' for them to go to the polls when issues involved were not clear and candidates were too numerous to be well known.

The survey therefore recommended that interest in voting be stimulated by "better organization of information about the principal issues in any campaign and wide publicity explaining the technique of voting." On the educational side, it was argued that a broader system of social education be established in the secondary schools, and more careful political education be undertaken with newcomers in any city or other community."

In other words, education for citizenship and simplification of the election and campaign routine are the steps necessary to make an active voter of the indifferent one.

OPPOSED TO PRESENT STATE ADMINISTRATION

Dear Journal:

I see by the paper of recent date that the Union Labor meeting in Peoria voted to support Governor Len Small for re-election.

I see also that the same body voted appreciation for his pardon of the Anarchist Janitors who had been convicted of a conspiracy and confined in the penitentiary.

A very interesting detail is omitted. I have it from a prominent and able professional man in Chicago that it was well known that preceding the primary election a representative of Governor Small asked the support of the labor union. It was demanded to know what he would do for labor in return for that support. The pardon of those janitors was demanded.

The representative withdrew for consultation. He returned and stated the terms were agreed upon. We all saw the statement in the papers that the labor unions of Chicago endorsed Governor Small before the primary election. This informant told me, a delegation from the labor unions visited Governor Small at Springfield and demanded that he make good and issue pardons for their members in the penitentiary. The pardons were issued.

Since the foregoing was written the press advises us that the power of Governor Small to pardon Leopold and Loeb was being discussed in the Office of the Governor. What does that mean? Do you imagine your subordinates would so misunderstand your attitude as to permit of their discussing that question in your office?

That Governor Small esteems the pardoning power a personal perquisite is evidenced by his pardon of the witnesses sent to jail for contempt of court in refusing to tell what they knew about the bribing of the jury men who acquitted Governor Small. This exercise of the pardoning power completely defeated inquiry into the question. The jury had acquitted Governor Small and he used his power as Governor to shield them from investigation as to being induced to render that remarkable verdict by bribery. If the jurors were not bribed witnesses had no reason for refusing to testify. Governor Small had no reason for protecting them against inquiry.

The writer, in conversation with a prominent citizen of Jacksonville, expressed his objection to the appointment to official positions by Governor Small of several of the jurors who voted for his acquittal.

"That is all right," said the prominent citizen, after announcing his intention to vote for Governor Small, "they had done him a favor and it is natural and honorable for him to show his appreciation."

Is it not a little curious that an intelligent citizen should approve of rewarding jurors by the accused, when acquitted? Does it not smack, as the prominent citizen put it, of doing a "favor" instead of justice? Is it good morals for the Governor to thus reward jurors who have acquitted him of a crime, as a favor, by appointing them to offices the salaries of which are paid by taxing the people who were not favored?

That attitude would justify the fathers of Loeb and Leopold in making Judge Caverly handsome presents for the favor to their sons in not sentencing them to be hung. It would justify the Judge in accepting such presents. It would justify jurors in expecting presents from those accused of crime, if acquitted. This would naturally and inevitably lead to the custom of making it profitable to jurors to acquit. But it would lead jurors to react against those innocent and "favor" the people by convictions where there was not prospect of presents.

"The deplorable thing about it all is not so much that we have a Governor in whose turpitude many believe, but that more than five out of ten of the people are ready, willing, even anxious, to support him for another term because of some benefit, real or fancied, he has been or will be to them."

A resident of Morgan County, in the office of the writer, announced that he is a democrat; that he voted for Governor Small in the primary and will vote for him in November. His reason was stated to be that "he gave us hard roads."

When the writer protested that it is thoroughly dishonest for Governor Small to preach that he has given the hard roads, both the law and the funds having been prepared by the former Governors and legislatures and vote of the people, a man who has held office in Morgan County by vote of the people remarked: "That is all right. If Governor Small can fool the people and get their votes he has a right to do so."

The moral attitude of one holding such views, would seem to be that fraud and deceit are legitimate means by which to attain one's desire. And the example may be freely followed.

The same logic would justify the diversion of public funds to private personal interest. The writer has not personally examined the records but is credibly informed, both by the published reports of public speeches of prominent men, the news item noting the incident at the time it occurred and by the personal assurance of acquaintances residing in Springfield, that the State Treasurer has been enjoined from paying printer's bills to the amount of forty three thousand dollars because they were for the personal electioneering expenses of Governor Small in his campaign for nomination at the spring primary election. Many readers received one or more copies, the writer received three, of a report of the Department of Public Welfare, exonerating Governor Small of charges concerning the use of the pardoning power. There seems to be no distinction between falsely claiming credit belonging to others in order to advance one's interests, and issuing false warrants for the same purpose. The penalty for the latter offense seem greater. But in spirit they are of the same character. Upon investigation you will probably find that he who feels secure of evading the penalty will do one as readily as the other.

This has been an accepted principle of human character for at least two thousand years. In legal phraseology it is expressed in the words, "Falsus in uno falsus in omnibus." False in one thing, false in every thing. It was earlier expressed by Jesus, Luke 16-10, "He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much; and he that is unrighteous in a very little is unrighteous also in much."

It has often been asserted that the people elect to office the kind of persons they prefer. What will the re-election of Governor Small indicate with reference to the moral standards of the people of the State of Illinois

It will be impossible to claim excuse on the ground of ignorance. Many have professed their dislike for The Chicago Tribune and claimed to have no faith in its many accusations. Contenting themselves with this attitude they shut their eyes to the very obvious facts. One a few have been alluded to in this article. You know, as a matter of current news that the Labor Union in their meeting at Peoria, voted their approval of the pardon of the Janitors and promised to support Governor Small for re-election. You know that Governor Small was indicted and that a jury acquitted him; that he rewarded several of the jury with appointments; that bribery was charged; that witnesses refused to tell what they knew and were committed to jail for contempt of court; that Governor Small pardoned them and thereby completely defeated judicial effort to learn the truth. The injunction prohibiting the State Treasurer from paying some $43,000.00, for printing Governor Small's private electioneering literature is a matter of record. These things would lead a people having any pride in their State to make sure of the kind of man Governor Small is. Only a little patient investigation will convince any open mind that he is subordinating all the powers of his office, regardless of the rights of the People, to the effort to secure his re-election. Re-election must be enormously important to him, for some reason. Personally, while this will be the 56th anniversary of my first vote and I have never voted for other than a Republican for Governor, I shall vote, if I have a vote, for Judge Jones.

It is not loyalty to any right principle to put bad men in office. That "Republicanism" which supports one false to his State and its institutions is not patriotism. That "Republicanism" which supports one who deliberately disregards his oath of office and sets aside laws is not patriotism. Take, for example, Civil Service. Does any one know of an instance in which that law functioned under the present administration? Every person of whom the writer has inquired, and inquiry has been made of persons familiar with all parts of the State, pronounces the law a dead letter. The Governor is sworn to support the laws.

A friend in whom I believe implicitly and who is in a position to know of the truth of his statement told me that during the campaign preceding the spring primary election Governor Small had a great many men employed to electioneer for him, particularly to post the pictures of Governor Small in all parts of the State, who were paid by orders against the appropriation "For the inspection and repair of hard roads."

It has for some time been a question of doubt whether Governor Small proposes to support Coolidge or LaFollette. A business acquaintance informed me that he was recently talking with a Springfield man, in that City, when a company of several gentlemen came along and remarked to the Springfield man: "We are going to smoke him out." My acquaintance did not take part in the conversation that ensued. After the gentlemen passed on the Springfield man remarked that the gentlemen were going to see if they could induce Governor Small to declare himself in favor of Coolidge. Since then he was seen by the papers that his co-politician, William Hale Thompson, ex-Mayor of Chicago, who soon decide whether to cast his lot with LaFollette. If these adventures in politics, who seem to be without principle or patriotism, can succeed in throwing the State of Illinois to LaFollette, then what? I shall vote for Judge Jones, unless I lose my vote, in absent I shall do my utmost to elect my vote.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID TO MRS. LOUISE HENRY

Funeral Services are Held Yesterday Afternoon with a Large Attendance.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Louise Henry attracted a large audience at the Woodson Christian church yesterday in spite of the inclement weather as many desired to pay a last tribute of respect to one so generally respected and beloved.

Rev. Mr. Ice read a part of the 14th chapter of John and Dr. Pontius offered a fervent prayer. A quartet consisting of Messrs. William Colton, George Cunningham, J. Chester Colton and Dr. R. R. Jones most acceptably rendered three selections, "Garden of God," "That Beautiful Land," and "Sometime, Somewhere."

Dr. Pontius then delivered a beautiful, eloquent and timely discourse taking for his text the words from Job, "Thou art great by beloved." He dwelt in a fitting manner on the well known character of the deceased who was so generally esteemed for her unusually good qualities. In the church and all its activities she was ever ready to render valuable services and in a manner which won for her the esteem of all with whom she came in contact. In times of sickness or bereavement her gentle ministrations were always so welcome to lonely and wounded hearts for she knew how to mingle her tears with those who wept and like her comforted Master, say words of comfort and cheer.

In all duties of any kind her pastor could always rely on her capable aid and assistance. The children loved her for she ever had a kind word for them and all whom she met testified to the welfare of her loved ones and the same time a good neighbor, hospitable to strangers and pleasant to all. Her departure has left a vacancy in the home, the church and the community which will be hard to fill.

At the close of the services the remains were borne to the Henry cemetery, south of Woodson by Messrs. T. M. Whitlock of Manchester, C. C. Self of Jacksonville, Charles Irlam, Frank Henry, W. E. McCurley and John Keihl of Woodson.

There were a great many beautiful flowers and these were carried for Misses Emma Hembrough, Rosella Sheppard, May McCurley, Helen Rea and Margaret Strandberg.

We loved her very tenderly. Her gentle, winning ways endeared her much to everyone. We loved to sound her praise. Her hand and heart were ever true.

She loved to speak a word of kindly cheer to every one. So like her Blessed Lord.

The lowly stranger in our gates. The Master's little ones. The humble toiler by the way. All heard her gentle tones.

Her kindly tender thoughtful ways. Cheered many a lonely heart. She loved to help the little ones. To choose the better part.

She labored for the church she loved. She always did her part. And ever lent a helping hand. With tender loving heart.

Her home was like a paradise. Where love, the guiding star, Led all to imitate her ways; 'Twas known from near and far.

She gladly ministered to all. With generous loving hand; To all the weak and lowly ones. Throughout the well known land.

And now she rests with Him the One. She served so faithfully. And in His presence she'll rejoice. Through all eternity.

Tribute of a friend.

COOLIDGE AHEAD IN FIRST RETURNS

LaFollette Running Strong Second in California—Light Vote from Five Large States Show Progressive Second in Three polls today showed Coolidge leading in the first returns in the Literary Digest. A total vote of 16,021 was calculated for Coolidge, 2,066 for LaFollette, and 2,021 for Davis with 297 votes for the other five candidates.

Only 20,706 ballots have been returned at the date of publication but these came from the most important states in California, Illinois, New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. LaFollette came second in the first three states and Davis second in the last two.

In California, LaFollette is running a strong second to Coolidge, having 2,066 votes against the President's 16,021.

In California, "There would be an indication here," The Digest states, "that, in California at least, both the Republican and Democratic are facing heavily to the Progressive candidate, with the Republicans, as the party which polled the largest number of votes in the last election, the most serious losers."

"Coolidge," it continues, "with these earlier returns, appears to be much stronger in Illinois, although

— to regain Strength

EVERY man, woman and child wants to live stronger and more vigorous. It means the joy of living, the ability to resist strain and underweight often proves low fighting power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve power, minus red cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is feeling to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red blood cells, you begin to recover your strength. S.S.S. since 1905 has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look young, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body.

More credit to S.S.S. aids nature in building them by the million. There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific method of analysis of the purely vegetable and mineral elements are all contained in S.S.S. It will give you a healthy, healthy and vicer and a healthy going appearance.

S.S.S. Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again making a comparison of the returns with the same states in 1920. It did seem to indicate a fall from the 1920 total vote polled up to Mr. Coolidge's four-year term.

It is the first time a vote may be thought to suggest that Mr. Coolidge is a stronger today than his opponent was in 1920.

Don M'Nami, also, would seem to be a fairly, or more fairly, played in the Republican column. It must be remembered, of course, that the total tabulation of ballots is not yet complete. The most interesting of the returns is the one from Pennsylvania, for instance, where a million ballots are being counted.

The Digest states that their poll does not yet give any real evidence of a decided lead with Coolidge. Washington correspondents as Davis, LaFollette and Mark Sullivan are running the country, leaving the chance of a deadlock.

The situation is further complicated by an electoral anomaly as the vote in Georgia, with a popular vote of 11,019 in the last election, has been an electoral vote, while New Jersey, with 108,628, has precisely the same number. Thus the north-east state may be balanced in the electoral college by a southern state with about one sixth as many voting citizens.

Each ballot requested the voter's political preference at the last presidential election and these are also tabulated in this issue of The Digest and analyzed for comparison.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC NOTES

The College of Music has started its year with one of the largest enrollments in its existence. The children's piano class will meet for organization on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and on account of the large number of registrations will be held in several sections. It is expected that the children's Theory and Ear Training classes will be started on Saturday, September 27th. The enrollment of the College of Music is nearing the three hundred mark. The Junior Department, comprising students more than one hundred and thirty, will meet their Saturday appointments.

The first faculty meeting of the College of Music was held at Director Pearson's studio on Wednesday morning where definite plans were made for the artist faculty and student body for the season of 1924-25. A social hour was enjoyed at the home of Director Pearson at the close of the meeting.

Miss Grace Terhune who completed the certificate course in public school music in the class of 1922, and who is supervisor at Lincoln, Ill., received her Bachelor of Music degree at the summer session of the Chicago Musical College. Miss Ethel Phillips of the Junior class of the College of Music contributed to the recent girls' number of the "Brown Jug" published by the students of Brown University, Providence, R. I.

Mr. Audrey Jordan of Robinson, Ill., who has been teaching public school music in her home town during the past year has accepted the position for another year, and has been attending the summer session at the University of Illinois.

The Child Culture Kindergarten work, which so successfully closed its first year's work in June, is conducted again by Miss Margaret Grimsley assisted by Miss Agnes Mulready. On account of its growing patronage it is being given in the Main building of the College of Music instead of the West Side Branch studio.

COOLIDGE AHEAD IN FIRST RETURNS

LaFollette Running Strong Second in California—Light Vote from Five Large States Show Progressives Second in Three

The most interesting feature in the first returns in The Literary Digest

EHNIE'S Week End Special: Black Walnut Salad.

post's poll of 15,000,000 votes published today is the remarkable showing made by LaFollette.

A total vote of 16,071 is tabulated for Coolidge, 5,596 for LaFollette, and 3,792 for Davis with 307 votes for the other five candidates.

Only 25,768 ballots have been returned at the date of publication but these came from the pivotal states of California, Illinois, New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, with LaFollette running second in the first three and Davis second in the last two.

EAT 'OUR DAILY BREAD' 18 oz. loaf 10c. at all dealers. SMITH'S BAKERY.

In California, LaFollette is running a strong second to Coolidge, having 1,561 votes against the President's 1,624.

In California "There would be an indication here," The Digest states, "that, in California at least, both the Republicans and Democrats are losing heavily to the Progressive candidate, with the Republicans, as the party which polled the largest number of votes in the last election, the most serious losers."

"Coolidge," it continues, "from these earliest returns, appears to be much stronger in Illinois, although here, also, a comparison of the votes cast by these same voters in 1921 would seem to indicate a fall from the large total vote rolled up by Mr. Harding four years ago.

"In Ohio, these first few votes may be thought to suggest that Mr. Coolidge is far stronger today than his predecessor was in 1920.

"Pennsylvania, also, would seem to be as firmly, or more firmly, planted in the Republican column. It must be remembered of course, that the present tabulation of ballots represents the merest smattering of a return. In Pennsylvania, for instance, nearly a million ballots are being distributed, a figure which may be compared with the present early return of less than 4,000 votes from that state. Also, these early returns must be accepted with the additional proviso that sections of Democratic strength are not represented in the five first states tabulated."

The Deadlock Cancels

The Digest states that their poll does not yet give any real evidence of a deadlock, but adds that "such Washington correspondents as Davis, Lawrence and Mark Sullivan are warning the country, because of the chance of a deadlock."

"Our complicated machinery for choosing a president," it continues, "may result in confusion, we are told, in case none of the few candidates receives a clear majority in the electoral college."

"The situation is further complicated by such electoral anomalies as the fact that Georgia, with a popular vote of 154,049 in the last election, has fourteen electoral votes, while New Jersey, with 908,628, has precisely the same number. Thus the northern State may be balanced in the electoral college by a southern State with about one-sixth as many voting citizens."

Each ballot requested the voter's political preference at the last presidential election and these are also tabulated in this issue of The Digest and analyzed for comparison.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC NOTES

The College of Music has started off its year with one of the largest enrollments in its existence. The children's piano class will meet for organization on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and on account of the large number of registrations will be obliged to meet in several sections. It is expected that the children's Theory and Eurythmic classes will be started on Saturday, September 27th. The enrollment of the College of Music is nearing the three hundred mark. The Junior Department numbering something more than one hundred and fifty.

Several volumes have recently been added to the music section of the library. Miss Horsburgh and Miss Sappio who have been spending the summer in Europe will arrive in the city to meet their Saturday appointments.

The first faculty meeting of the College of Music was held at Director Pearson's studio on Wednesday evening where definite plans were made for the artist, faculty and students recitals for the season of 1924-25. A social hour was enjoyed at the home of Director Pearson at the close of the meeting.

Miss Grace Terhune who completed the certificate course in public school music in the class of 1922, and who is supervisor at Lincoln, Ill., received her Bachelor of Music degree at the summer session of the Chicago Musical college. Miss Rhoda Phillips of the junior class of the College of Music contributed to the recent girls number of the "Brown Jug" published by the students of Brown University, Providence, R. I.

Miss Audrey Jordan of Robinson, Ill., who has been teaching public school music in her home town during the past year, has accepted the position for another year, and has been attending the summer session at the University of Illinois.

The Child Culture Kindergarten work, which so successfully closed its first year's work in June, is conducted again by Miss Margaret Grimsley assisted by Miss Agnes Mulready. On account of its growing patronage it is being given in the Main building of the College of Music instead of the West Side Branch studio.

Man and Nature

MY WOODS. By Samuel A. Harper. Published by the Book-Fellows, 1923.

Reviewed by ANNA WAKELY JACKSON. Aside from its success in stimulating interest in and appreciation of the beautiful and worthy literature, and in the promotion of book-fellowship in the few years of its existence the Order of Book-fellows has another achievement to its credit. That is the publication of choice books and treatises from time to time—choice both in contents and format, some of which have already become collectors' items. These publications are for sale to members of the order only; but the lover of books would consider the membership fee and yearly dues of one dollar a small matter when it places these beautifully printed and bound books within his reach.

One of the recent Book-fellow publications that appeals specially to the nature lover is "My Woods," by Samuel A. Harper. In its pages Mr. Harper reveals the myriad beauties to be found near at hand. He has not traveled far to find loveliness but has looked about him near at home and has described with sympathy, charm and understanding the delights to the eye and ear to be found in a piece of woodland near Chicago.

His words he knows thoroughly and is on the best of terms with its inhabitants. Each season brings its train of beauty and wonder to his seeing eye and listening ear. Weather vagaries trouble him not at all. He loves Nature in all her aspects and no frowns, naturalists. Like all true nature lovers, he would undo his treasure house to others who are at present too full of the world's mad rush, or too heedless, to enter into their rightful heritage of beauty. There are both real and imitation nature lovers, and both kinds talk about their experiences, but for very different reasons. The real nature lover feels so fabulously opulent, that to share his wealth is a natural impulse; while the imitation variety simply wishes to make an impression.

"My Woods" is a book one longs to quote; and perhaps there is no better way to give the flavor of a book than by quoting from it. In the introductory chapter, in dealing with the question of conservation of natural beauty, he writes: "The joy that comes to one from an appreciation of his kinship with nature far surpasses any satisfaction he may gain from any assumption of proprietorship over the animal and vegetable kingdoms, and the cultivation of this sense of brotherhood with all created things has an important influence upon the development of spiritual character. One may grow tall by walking with the trees and musical by living with the birds. Shaw says that this sense of kinship of all forms of life is the key to the evolution of man. It is needed to make evolution not only a conceivable theory, but an inspiring one." Again, he writes: "We do not destroy that which we love. Unfortunately, great reform movements with us are seldom successful for reasons of sentiment or spiritual advantage, but only when it becomes evident that they will contribute to our efficiency or will result in practical benefit to private business. By whatever influence real conservation may come, however, we shall be content."

In dwelling upon the wonderful harmony of nature, Mr. Harper says: "I sometimes think that man is out of place on his own planet. He rushes into it with vast gusto and, unlike all creatures of the earth, seems intent on making it over to suit his passing fancy, and the result is often a tragedy. He is the only animal that is not in harmony with his natural environment. He seeks to create an artificial environment all his own. Most of us are foreigners on this earth who have never been naturalized. Man's very presence in a forest robs it of its original wildness. He changes the nature of it as no other animal does."

The reviewer fully agrees with the author that to enjoy the full beauty and grandeur of a storm, one must be out in it. Mr. Harper gives a most graphic account of a March storm (almost a cyclone) which he witnessed and of which he was a part in his woods.

"My Woods" is a book for the hard student and laborer, for the author has much to tell of the many birds that visit his woods during the four seasons. In recounting experiences with the birds and describing their antics, he remarks: "For my part I would rather watch the birds than a ball game." (To which sentiment, incidentally, one of his readers says, "Amen!")

In the chapter on "Summer," writing of the beauties of June, the author exclaims: "Living or dying, one wonders with Isaac Walton what must be reserved for the saints in heaven, when such joys are vouchsafed to mere men on earth. Ay, one wonders if there be a heaven more beautiful than this." And in regard to things near home, "Though my walks have never taken me far, I often find upon my return home some object of interest which I had looked for in vain in the woods. When the simple wood-

SAY AND HEARSAY

Regarding the "certain slight changes in policy and form" which the retiring editor promised in this by his successor, it will be better perhaps to make no promises. It will be a matter for congratulation if the present incumbent maintains the high standard set by his predecessor, but it will be his object and ambition to do so to the best of his ability.

However, there are two or three things, necessary to mention at the start, which will have some bearing on that high resolve. In the first place, the present editor is devoted to several other causes, which require more or less of his spare time, and which he is still reluctant to sacrifice. The time he has to devote to this project, worthy as it may seem, is necessarily limited, and for that reason particularly it has been decided to reduce the scope of the literary section to about half what it formerly occupied. Better a good half page than a poor whole page.

As it stands then, the success of the page, and the prospects of enlargement again to former proportions will depend upon the interest shown by those who care for such entertainment, and by those whose business it is to contribute much of the wisdom that illuminates these columns. So far as material is concerned, it is an easy thing to "fill the page," but it will be the editor's concern to steer in the direction of literature rather than "just reading" matter.

In view of this fact, the editor will welcome reasonable suggestions in the beginning as to what this page should or should not contain, and how it should or should not be presented. But please do not construe this as a lack of confidence in his own ability. It is not. And it will not be expected that any two suggestions will be similar, but a single one, in fact, may point the way to improvement.

In our opinion, for instance, the conventional book-review is a dull and purposeless thing. It is a matter of note that the book-review magazines themselves are not settled upon just what is the object of their existence, nor what is the best method of going about it. On first thoughts, it would seem that they ought to be guides—reliable guides to the best current literature, gotten out for the benefit of the many who desire to invest in such literature, or at least to inform themselves as well as possible on the subject.

It is a pardonable assumption, however, that such publications are gotten out for the benefit of the publishers: to sell books, or "boost" them, regardless of the quality of the books or the taste of the buyers. Accordingly, the great bulk of books reviewed in the usual book-review, few people read them with gusto, and many bookshelves will claim that reviews no longer promote their sales to any appreciable extent.

Those who love nature will respond eagerly to "My Woods." The book will recreate for them their own rare woodland explorations and experiences and they will find themselves comparing notes and living over again past delights. And many of them will agree with the author that "Man's love of nature has robbed him of many stimulating joys which are now known only to the native inhabitants of forest and field." And further, that "In direct proportion to the number of points of correspondence or contact with the external world which one establishes and maintains with his life he is full and abundant."

Points are the true seers. It is to the seer that Nature reveals herself most fully. Mr. Harper has borrowed from them to illustrate his text and has added to the charm of his book thereby.

Dr. A. E. Prince of Springfield, Illinois, will see his eye, ear, nose and throat patients in Jacksonville the 1st Thursday of each month at the Dunlap Hotel.

MAGAZINES OF ALL SORTS AND SHADES

It is said that every minute a new horn is heard, and another prospect is offered of the speed of the horn. The same speed seems to enliven the birth of new magazines, says Roger Curley in Book Chat. There is not merely at least one magazine for every subject, including the Mexican hairless breed of dogs and the new styles in bottles, but we are rapidly approaching the time when there will be a magazine for every person.

The rapidly with which magazines arise to please the fashion of the hour is shown in the hordes of radio sheets. There are, it is said, a million and a half of radio receivers. There are not yet that many magazines. There are acres of fiction magazines, of house-building, dog-breeding and muscle-making magazines. There are funny magazines and happy magazines, which print pictures and magazines which run articles, magazines which have only popular authors, and magazines which have only the unpopular. There are magazines which weekly or monthly strive with relentless zeal to remake the world in their own image, and thus nearer to the heart's desire.

Among literary sheets I notice that Nathan and Mencken's American Mercury continues to flaunt its bright green covers, like an angry Irishman who is suspiciously uncertain just what he should be doing, but is constitutionally against the government. I hear the hum of Synthe's International Book Review, purring like a sleek, housebroken cat before a warm fire. I see John Farrar's Bookman earnestly striving to elevate the Literary Tone of the Ladies' Literary Clubs through the National Club. And I see Bon Hecht's Chicago Literary Times in jaundiced yellow.

Controversy rages now, and will rage for some time yet, over the proper estimate to be placed upon the works of Conrad, and perhaps it is not safe to say that he has many more readers now than at any time during his life.

"A personal opinion is a personal opinion," says Stephen Graham, in the Saturday review, "but I would say the best book of Conrad's is 'The Nigger of the Narcissus,' the best sea story of Jack London is 'The Cruise of the Elsinore,' and the best play of Eugene O'Neill's is 'Anne Christie.'"

"Jack London is rarer than Conrad," he is quoted as saying. "Conrad is cooked, less finished, and less polished, and less perfect, perhaps of more literary virtues. Wholly inferior as an artist, he nevertheless presented life with inspirational power. There is not so much of the 'old man' about him. He is a younger man, jollying you into a public-house. He at least treats you as a post-mortem examination. He may respect the dead, but he will not kill him again. The wedding guest may never for a moment forget he is due at a wedding somewhere, but London has sufficient power to say, 'Curse the wedding; come along!'"

HELPFUL SERIES OF ARTICLES ON STAGE

Beginning with the October issue, The Theatre Magazine is to run a series of articles, informative as well as constructive, on the subject of play production in high schools, as a monthly feature of their amateur stage department. The first four articles are by Clarence Stratton, author of the book "Producing in Little Theatre," and Director of English, Cleveland Board of Education. The last two will be by Ralph Smalley, Mechanic Arts High School, St. Paul. The articles are to be illustrated with sketches and photographs, and the series ought to be helpful and suggestive to directors and actors concerned in college and high school dramatics.

Seldom a house painter becomes a novelist, but Arthur Hougham, whose novel "Hammer Marks" is his second, carries on that trade. Incidentally this novel, published by Houghton Mifflin Co. is more or less autobiographical and in it Hougham portrays vividly the struggles between self-expression and poverty, in which he finally, out of the sordid turmoil of life, found his solution for the problem in a dual personality of journeyman house painter and novelist.

The reviewer must have an idea, whether it is helios helios science, or history, that he is criticising. It is certain that science makes good ideas probable, and sterilizes bad ones. It is certain that the art of reviewing is to approach the book with every esthetic faculty awake, then, if the idea comes, to be able to express it. The Saturday Review.

Those who see the Universal picture, "The Restless Ape," may wonder why it seems familiar. Probably the reason is that they have read the book from "Love Insurance" by Earl Derr Biggers. Published several weeks ago by Bobbs-Merrill, a popular edition under the film title is now issued by Grosset and Dunlap.

Announcements are out for another book-review magazine to be published under the auspices of the New York Herald Tribune, the first issue of which is due Sept. 21. The new venture is to be known as "Books" and the editor is Stuart P. Sherman with Lita Vandoren, former literary editor of "The Nation" as his associate.

CONTRIBUTION TO WHITE HALL LIBRARY

Kansas City Man Makes Valuable Addition to Library in White Hall—Other Greene County News Notes

White Hall, Sept. 19. A contribution to the White Hall Library from Hon. H. P. Lowenstein of Kansas City, comprises five volumes of "The Anthology of Newspaper Verse" selected and published by Franklin Pierce Davis of Fair, Okla., being for the years 1919 and 1923 inclusive. These volumes embody all of the anthology thus far issued, and cannot be substituted. These newspaper poems, inspired by the war and its results, can never be replaced, and as the years go by they will be more appreciated by the reading public. Mr. Lowenstein says: "It was my purpose to contribute something of permanent value to the library when I learned that Mr. Griswold was to erect a real library building in White Hall. It affords me great pleasure," he adds in his communication to the directors, "to have the privilege of placing this set of books in the library, and especially as each volume contains a small part of my poor effort."

Much interest centers in the new time schedules to go into effect on both the Alton and the Burlington on Sunday, Sept. 29th. It is not fully known just how the new schedule will effect White Hall at the present time, but it is known that the Burlington night train No. 51 at St. Louis for St. Paul will leave St. Louis at 8:31 p. m. and will reach White Hall at 10:52 p. m., 20 minutes later than at present. The full 10 minutes is to be made up by the time the train reaches Vermont. The faster schedule is to be made possible by making flag stops of some of the present regular stops and cutting out other stations altogether. The later departure will enable connection from southern lines that are missed at present. The changes in other trains will be only slight if any change at all.

It is not likely that copy for the new C. & A. schedules will be O. K. for the printed before Monday and the important changes contemplated can not be stated with any accuracy from a local standpoint. There appears to be no doubt of additional service on this line by either a new through train for Chicago or extending the run of Nos. 15 and 14 between Roodhouse and St. Louis. The latter service is desired by the milk shippers.

Miss Helen Smith of Prentice entered the hospital Friday morning. Mrs. Mary Wood of Route 5 was admitted for treatment Friday morning.

Miss Nellie Dean of New Salem entered the hospital as a patient Friday morning.

S. F. Decker was able to return to his home in White Hall Thursday evening.

Man and Nature

MY WOODS. By Samuel A. Harper. Published by the Book-fellows. 1923.

Reviewed by ANNA WAKELY JACKSON
As far as its success in stimulating interest in and appreciation of the beautiful and worthy in literature, and in the promotion of bookfellowship, in the few years of its existence the Order of Bookfellow has another achievement to its credit. That is the publication of choice books and brochures from time to time—choice both in contents and format, some of which have already become collectors' items. These publications are for sale to members of the order only; but the lover of books would consider the membership fee and yearly dues of one dollar a small matter when it places these beautifully printed and bound books within his reach.

One of the recent Bookfellow publications that appeals specially to the nature lover is "My Woods," by Samuel A. Harper. In its pages Mr. Harper reveals the myriad beauties to be found near at hand. He has not traveled far to find loveliness but has looked about him near his home and has described with sympathy, charm and understanding the delights to the eye and ear to be found in a piece of woodland near Chicago.

His woods he knows thoroughly and is on the best of terms with its inhabitants. Each season brings its train of beauty and wonder to his seeing eye and listening ear. Weather vagaries trouble him not at all. He loves Nature in all her aspects and is no fireside naturalist. Like all true nature lovers, he would unlock his treasure house to others who are at present too full of the world's mad rush, or too heedless, to enter into their rightful heritage of beauty. There are both real and imitation nature lovers, and both kinds talk about their experiences, but for very different reasons. The real nature lover feels so fabulously opulent, that to share his wealth is a natural impulse; while the imitation variety simply wishes to make an impression.

"My Woods" is a book one longs to quote, and perhaps there is no better way to give the flavor of a book than by quoting from it. In the introductory chapter, in dealing with the question of conservation of natural beauty, he writes: "The joy that comes to one from an appreciation of his kinship with nature far surpasses any satisfaction he may gain from any assumption of proprietorship over the animal and vegetable kingdoms, and the cultivation of this sense of brotherhood with all created things has an important influence upon the development of spiritual character. One may grow tall by walking with the trees and musical by living with the birds. Shaw says that this sense of kinship of all forms of life is all that is needed to make evolution not only a conceivable theory, but an inspiring one." Again, he writes: "We do not destroy that which we love. Unfortunately, great reform movements with us are seldom successful for reasons of sentiment or spiritual advantage, but only when they become evident that they will contribute to our efficiency or will result in practical benefit to private business. By whatsoever influence real conservation may come, however, we shall be content."

In dwelling upon the wonderful harmony of nature, Mr. Harper says: "I sometimes think that man is out of place on his own planet. He rushes into it with vast gusto and, unlike all creatures of the earth, seems intent on making it over to suit his passing fancy, and the result is often a tragedy. He is the only animal that is not in harmony with his natural environment. He seeks to create an artificial environment all his own. Most of us are foreigners on this earth who have never been naturalized. Man's very presence in a forest robs it of its original wildness. He changes the nature of it as no other animal does."

The reviewer fully agrees with the author that to enjoy the full beauty and grandeur of a storm one must be out in it. Mr. Harper gives a most graphic account of a March storm (almost a cyclone) which he witnessed and of which he was a part in his woods.

"My Woods" is a book for the bird student and lover, for the author has much to tell of the many birds that visit his woods during the four seasons. In recounting experiences with the bobolinks and describing their antics, he remarks: "For my part I would rather watch the bobolinks than a ball game." (To which sentiment at least one of his readers says, "Amen!")

In the chapter on "Summer," writing of the beauties of June, the author exclaims: "Living or dying, one wonders with Isaac Walton what must be reserved for the saints in heaven, when such joys are vouchsafed to mere men on earth. Ay, one wonders if there be a heaven more beautiful than this." And in regard to things near home, he says: "Though my walks have never taken me far, I often find upon my return home some object of interest which I had looked for in vain in the woods. When the simple wood-

PHILIP DE BRITO

Yes, here at Syriam it was he came,
When Razagyi was king in Arracan.
Upon our ancient rites he set a ban,
For he had routed Africa to claim
New land for Portugal. With fearful lips,
Before his graven Mary hundreds bowed,
Pretending acquiescence, and allowed
Pagoda gold to fill the hungry ships.

Along this very lane he found his fate;
With arms transfixed upon a big bamboo,
Exposed to tropic sun and public view,
Aloft he swung above his own estate—
Three days before a curious countryside,
Three days in agony until he died.

SAY AND HEARSAY

Regarding the "certain slight changes in policy and form" which the retiring editor promised in last issue would be announced in this by his successor, it will be better perhaps to make no promises. It will be a matter for congratulation if the present incumbent maintains the high standard set by his predecessor, but it will be his object and ambition to do so to the best of his ability. However, there are two or three things, necessary to mention at the start, which will have some bearing on that high resolve. In the first place, the present editor is devoted to several other causes, which require more or less of his spare time, and which he is still reluctant to sacrifice. The time he has to devote to this project, worthy as it may seem, is necessarily limited, and for that reason particularly it has been decided to reduce the space of the literary section to about half what it formerly occupied. Better a good half page than a poor whole page.

As it stands then, the success of the page, and the prospects of enlargement again to former proportions will depend upon the interest shown by those who care for such entertainment, and by those whose business it is to contribute much of the wisdom that illuminates these columns. So far as material is concerned, it is an easy thing to "fill the page," but it will be the editor's concern to steer in the direction of literature rather than "just readin' matter."

In view of this fact, the editor will welcome reasonable suggestions in the beginning as to what this page should or should not contain, and how it should or should not be presented. But please do not construe this as a lack of confidence in his own ability. It is not. And it will not be expected that any two suggestions will be similar, but a single one, in fact, may point the way to improvement.

In our opinion, for instance, the conventional book-review is a dull and purposeless thing. It is a matter of note that the book-review magazines themselves are not settled upon just what is the object of their existence, nor what is the best method of going about it. On first thoughts, it would seem that they ought to be guides—reliable guides to the best current literature, gotten out for the benefit of the many who desire to invest in such literature, or at least to inform themselves as well as possible on the subject.

It is a pardonable assumption, however, that such publications are gotten out for the benefit of the publishers—to sell books, or "boost" them, regardless of the quality of the books or the taste of the buyer. Accordingly, the real buyer of books is wary of the usual book-review, few people read them with gusto, and many bookshelves with disdain. That views no longer promote their sales to any appreciable extent.

land paths of home are constantly inviting us to enjoy the beauty and fellowship of Nature, my wonder grows that we so seldom hear the call. And again: "An interested attention to the operations of nature seems to develop a faculty for creating beautiful things which do not exist for others."

Those who love nature will respond eagerly to "My Woods." The book will re-create for them their own rare woodland explorations and experiences and they will find themselves comparing notes and living over again past delights. And many of them will agree with the author that "Man's love of ease has robbed him of many stimulating joys which are now known only to the native inhabitants of forest and field." And further, that "In direct proportion to the number of points of correspondence or contact with the external world which one establishes and maintains, will his life be full and abundant."

Poets are the true seers. It is to them that Nature reveals herself most fully. Mr. Harper has borrowed from them to illustrate his text and has added to the charm of his book thereby.

Dr. A. E. Prince of Springfield, Illinois, will see his eye, ear, nose and throat patients in Jacksonville the 1st Thursday of each month at the Dunlap Hotel.

MAGAZINES OF ALL SORTS AND SHADES

It is said that every minute a new born cry is heard, and another prospective client of the undertakers is born. The same speed seems to enliven the birth of new magazines, says Roger Curley in Book Chat. There is not merely at least one magazine for every subject, including the Mexican hairless breed of dogs and the new styles in bottles, but we are rapidly approaching the time when there will be a magazine for every person.

The rapidity with which magazines arise to please the fashion of the hour is shown in the hordes of radio sheets. There are, it is said, a million and a half of radio receivers. There are not yet that many magazines. There are acres of fiction magazines, of house-building, dog-breeding and music-making magazines. There are funny magazines and happy magazines. There are magazines which print pictures and magazines which run articles, magazines which have only popular authors, and magazines which have only the unpopular. There are magazines which weekly or monthly strive with relentless toil to remake the world in their own image, and thus nearer to the heart's desire.

Among literary sheets I notice that Nathan and Mencken's American Mercury continues to flaunt its bright green covers, like an angry Irishman who is suspiciously uncertain just what he should be ag'in, but is constitutionally ag'in the government. I hear the hum of Smythe's International Book Review, purring like a sleek, housebroken cat before a warm fire. I see John Farrar's Cooper and the Literary Tone of the Ladies' Literary Clubs through-out the nation. And I see Ben Hecht's Chicago Literary Times in jaundiced yellow.

STEPHEN GRAHAM SIZES UP CONRAD

Controversy rages now, and will rage for some time yet, over the proper estimate to be placed upon the works of Conrad, and perhaps it is safe to say that he has many more readers now than at any time during his life.

"A personal opinion is a personal opinion," says Stephen Graham, in the Saturday review, "but I would say the best book of Conrad's is 'The Nigger of the 'Narcissus,' the best sea story of Jack London is 'The Cruise of the Elsinore,' and the best play of Eugene O'Neill's is 'Annie Christie.'"

"Jack London is rarer than Conrad; less cooked, less finished and embellished, and possessed perhaps of more literary vitamins. Wholly inferior as an artist, he nevertheless presented life with inspirational power. There is not so much of the 'old man' about him. He is a younger mariner, jollying you into a public-house. He at least treats you to no post-mortem examinations. He may resurrect the 'sea-faring man with one leg,' but he will not kill him again. The wedding guest may wait for a moment, for he is due at a wedding somewhere, but London has sufficient power to say, 'Curse the wedding; come along!'"

Hither and thither moves, and checks, and slays. And one by one back in the Closet lays.

On the other hand, it is essential to know something more than the new books—you should know something of the old ones, for in no other way can you attain a proper and helpful standard of literature in general. In no other way can you acquire any ease or certainty as to your taste in the presence of other literary folk, or be able to defend your views with any degree of logic convincing to those who have the advantage of enlightenment.

Therefore, we wait suggestions—short pithy letters preferably—from those interested in this department, on the question of how to make it more interesting and valuable to the people of Jacksonville. And any such, if not anonymous, addressed to the "Literary Editor of the Journal," will receive the courtesy and attention they deserve.

HELPFUL SERIES OF ARTICLES ON STAGE

Beginning with the October issue, The Theatre Magazine is to run a series of articles, informative as well as constructive, on the subject of play production in high schools, as a monthly feature of their amateur stage department. The first four articles are by Clarence Stratton, author of the book "Producing in Little Theatres," and director of English, Cleveland Board of Education. The last two will be by Ralph Smalley, Mechanic Arts, High School, St. Paul. The articles are to be illustrated with sketches and photographs, and the series ought to be helpful and suggestive to instructors and all concerned in college and high school dramatics.

Seldom a house painter becomes a novelist, but Arthur Hougham, whose novel "Hammer Marks" is his second, carries on that trade. Incidentally this novel, published by Houghton Mifflin Co., is more or less autobiographical, and in it Hougham portrays vividly the struggles between self-expression and poverty, in which he finally, out of the sordid turmoil of life, found his solution for the problem in a dual personality of journeyman house painter and novelist.

The reviewer must have an idea, whether it is belles lettres, science, or history, that he is criticizing. It is certain that science makes good ideas probable, and sterilizes bad ones. It is certain that the art of reviewing is to approach the book with every esthetic faculty awake, then, if the idea comes, to be able to express it.—The Saturday Review.

Those who see the Universal picture, "The Restless Age," may wonder why it seems familiar. Probably the reason is that they have read the book from which the picture was made, "Love Incurable," by Earl Durr Biggers, published several years ago by Bobbs-Merrill. A popular edition under the film title is now issued by Grosset and Dunlap.

CONTRIBUTION TO WHITE HALL LIBRARY

Kansas City Man Makes Valuable Addition to Library in White Hall—Other Greene County News Notes

White Hall, Sept. 19.—A contribution to the White Hall library from Hon. H. P. Lowenstein of Kansas City, comprises five volumes of "The Anthology of Newspaper Verse" selected and published by Franklin Pierre Davis of Kaid, Okla., being for the years 1919 and 1923 inclusive. These volumes embody all of the anthology thus far issued, and cannot be substituted. These newspaper poems, inspired by the war and its results, can never be replaced, and as the years go by they will be more appreciated by the reading public. Mr. Lowenstein says: "It was my purpose to contribute something of permanent value to the library when I learned that Mr. Griswold was to erect a real library building in White Hall. It affords me great pleasure," he adds in his communication to the directors, "to have the privilege of placing this set of books in the library, and especially as each volume contains a small part of my poor effort."

Much interest centers in the new time schedules to go into effect on both the Alton and the Burlington on Sunday, Sept. 29th. It is not fully known just how the new schedules will effect White Hall at the present time, but it is known that the Burlington night train No. 51 of St. Louis for St. Paul will leave St. Louis at 8:34 p. m., 40 minutes later than at present, and will reach White Hall at 10:52 p. m., 20 minutes later than at present. The full 40 minutes is to be made up by the time the train reaches Vermont. The faster schedule is to be made possible by making flag stops of some of the present regular stops and cutting out other stations altogether. The later departure will enable connection from southern lines that are missed at present. The changes in other trains will be only slight if any change at all.

It is not likely that copy for the new C. & A. schedules will be O. K. for the printed before Monday and the important changes contemplated can not be stated with any accuracy from a local standpoint. There appears to be no doubt of additional service on this line by either a new through train for Chicago or extending the run of Nos. 15 and 14 between Roadhouse and St. Louis. The latter service is desired by the milk shippers.

Menus for a Family

Breakfast—Cantaloupe, ready to serve cereal, potato omelet, toasted muffins, jelly, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Cream of celery soup, toast sticks, cereal pudding, thin cream, tea.
Dinner—Scotch broth, scalloped tomatoes, rye bread, Swiss cheese, apple sauce, gingerbread, milk, coffee.

No milk is suggested for the luncheon menu since a milk soup is served and thin cream is served on the pudding.

The four-year-old should make his supper of the broth, whole bread, milk to drink and 2 table-spoons apple sauce.

Potato Omelet
Four thin slices bacon, 2 cups diced boiled potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 4 eggs, 4 table-spoons milk.

Cut bacon in inch squares and fry in a frying pan until crisp. Pour off all but 1 table-spoon fat.

Add potatoes, season with salt and pepper, cover and cook over a low fire until very hot. Beat eggs with milk, season slightly with salt and pepper and pour over potatoes. The pan should be very hot when the eggs are added. Reduce heat and cook until eggs are set. If the oven is going for toast put the pan on the middle grate to slightly color the top of the eggs. Fold and serve.

Cereal Pudding
One cup cold cooked wheat cereal, 2 cups hot milk, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup chopped dates, 1-4 teaspoon salt, nutmeg.

Add milk slowly to cereal, beating until smooth. Add sugar, salt and dates and mix well. Beat whole egg and yolk of second egg until light and add to first mixture. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm to the touch. Beat remaining white of egg until stiff with 1 table-spoon cold water. Beat in 2 table-spoons sugar and spread over top of pudding. Bake eight minutes in a moderate oven.

If a meringue is not wanted, the whole egg should be used in the pudding.

The pudding can be spread with jelly if dates are not used in it before the meringue is added.

Scalloped Tomatoes
Put a layer of whole wheat bread crumbs in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Cover with a layer of tomatoes, pared and sliced, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with bits of butter. Continue layer for layer until dish is two-thirds full. The last layer should be of crumbs. Cover the dish and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. Remove cover and brown the top before serving.

Menus for a Family

Tested by  SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Cantaloupe, ready to serve cereal, potato omelet, toasted muffins, jelly, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Cream of celery soup, toast sticks, cereal pudding, thin cream, tea.

Dinner—Scotch broth, scalloped tomatoes, rye bread, Swiss cheese, apple sauce, gingerbread, milk, coffee.

No milk is suggested for the luncheon menu since a milk soup is served and thin cream is served on the pudding.

The four-year-old should make his supper of the broth, whole bread, milk to drink and 2 tablespoons apple sauce.

Potato Omelet
Four thin slices bacon, 2 cups diced boiled potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 4 eggs, 4 tablespoons milk.

Cut bacon in inch squares and fry in a frying pan until crisp. Pour off all but 1 tablespoon fat.

Add potatoes, season with salt and pepper, cover and cook over a low fire until very hot. Beat eggs with milk, season slightly with salt and pepper and pour over potatoes. The pan should be very hot when the eggs are added. Reduce heat and cook until eggs are set. If the oven is going for toast put the pan on the middle grate to slightly color the top of the eggs. Fold and serve.

Cereal Pudding
One cup cold cooked wheat cereal, 2 cups hot milk, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup chopped dates, 1-4 teaspoon salt, nutmeg.

Add milk slowly to cereal, beating until smooth. Add sugar, salt and dates and mix well. Beat whole egg and yolk of second egg until light and add to first mixture.

Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm to the touch. Beat remaining white of egg until stiff with 1 tablespoon cold water. Beat in 2 tablespoons sugar and spread over top of pudding. Bake eight minutes in a moderate oven.

If a meringue is not wanted the whole egg should be used in the pudding.

The pudding can be spread with jelly if dates are not used in it before the meringue is added.

Scalloped Tomatoes
Put a layer of whole wheat bread crumbs in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Cover with a layer of tomatoes, pared and sliced, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with bits of butter. Continue layer for layer until dish is two-thirds full. The last layer should be of crumbs. Cover the dish and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. Remove cover and brown the top before serving.

TIGERS WIN IN SMASHING FINISH

Cobb Goes to Third on Dugan's Overthrow in Ninth Frame and Comes Home on Haney's Single, Giving Detroit Game, 6 to 5

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 19.—A smashing finish that drove Sam Dugan from the box in the eighth and brought the winning run home in the ninth on a single off Hoyt resulted in the defeat of the New York Yankees 6 to 5 today by Detroit. The defeat dropped New York into second place.

With the score tied Cobb started the winning rally in the last of the ninth, grounding to Dugan. The Tiger manager went all the way to taint when Dugan overthrew first base. Heinman and Rigney were first passed and then Haney who entered the game in the eighth to enter for Pratt singled Cobb home with the deciding run.

Cobb made one hit during the game, bringing his season's total to 100. He needs one more to break the record he now holds jointly with Willie Keiser of having made 200 or more hits in eight seasons.

SENATORS HIT SIX OF BROWN HURLERS

Take Weird Game by Score of 15 to 9 and Regain Undisputed Top Place in American League

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 19.—By hitting six Browns' pitchers freely and taking advantage of the four lucky breaks, Washington took today's game here 15 to 9 and thus regained the undisputed lead of the American League due to the Yankee's defeat by Detroit. The Senators started the game in hard hitting fashion, batting Dixie Davis and Vangilder from the mound before the side was retired in the opening inning. Fourteen men of the visiting team faced the three Browns' pitchers of this game run, two singles by McNeely, one each by Goslin, Rice, Harris and Judge, a double by Peckinpaugh, two passes, a hit batsman and McManus had throw to the plate gave the Senators their commanding lead.

Three more runs were added in the fifth inning from four successive singles by McNeely, Rice, Harris and Goslin, a walk and a hit batsman. One more score in the seventh on a pass, a double and a sacrifice and two more in the eighth on two singles and a double ended the visitors' scoring.

The Browns counted four of their runs in the fourth inning when Mogridge was driven from the mound and relieved by Marberry. Four straight singles by Robertson, Sisler, Williams and McManus, and Gerber's double produced the four scores. One each in the fifth and eighth and three in the seventh finished the Browns' run of scoring.

DEKALB, Ill. (AP)—Twenty-two high schools have been admitted to the Illinois High School Athletic association this year and are now eligible to compete in fall term high school athletic contests with other association schools. C. W. Whitten, manager of the association, announced today.

The Franklin high school football team had the honor of prying off the football lid in Morgan county for the season of 1924 when they met and defeated Scottville high yesterday afternoon at Franklin by a shutout score of 13 to 0. Fullback Tannehill making both touchdowns, and Left Halfback Baker kicking the one goal.

Franklin has a good team this year, averaging about 155 pounds in weight, and fast. On next Saturday the squad goes to Winchester to tackle the high school team of that place.

In the game yesterday, Franklin put the pigskin over in the first five minutes of play but were unable to add the extra toe-point; in the second quarter neither team was able to put it over, the other touchdown and goal point coming the third session; the fourth quarter passed with neither side scoring, the ball resting on Scottville's 30-yard line when the whistle blew for the end of the game. Franklin played the whole game with their original lineup, Scottville using two substitutes.

SENATORS HIT SIX OF BROWN HURLERS

Take Weird Game by Score of 15 to 9 and Regain Undisputed Top Place in American League

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 19.—By hitting six Browns' pitchers freely and taking advantage of the four lucky breaks, Washington took today's game here 15 to 9 and thus regained the undisputed lead of the American League due to the Yankees' defeat by Detroit. The Senators started the game in hard hitting fashion, batting Dixie Davis and Vangilder from the mound before the side was retired in the opening inning. Fourteen men of the visiting team faced the three Browns' pitchers of this inning in which the Senators scored nine runs. Two singles by McNeely, one each by Goslin, Rice, Harris and Judge, a double by Peckinpaugh, two passes, a hit batsman and McManus' bad throw to the plate gave the Senators their commanding lead.

Three more runs were added in the fifth inning on four successive singles by McNeely, Rice, Harris and Goslin, a walk and a hit batsman. One more score in the seventh on a pass a double and a sacrifice and two more in the eighth on two singles and a double ended the visitors' scoring.

The Browns counted four of their runs in the fourth inning when Mogridge was driven from the mound and relieved by Marberry. Four straight singles by Robertson, Sisler, Williams and McManus, and Gerber's double produced the four scores. One each in the fifth and eighth and three in the seventh finished the Browns' run of scoring.

HAGAN AND BARNES TO PLAY IN FINALS

RENCH LICK, Ind., Sept. 19.—Walter Hagan of New York, holder of British open title will play Jim Barnes, former national champion in the finals for the national professional golf championship at French Lick Springs, both having survived the day's 36 hole matches.

Hagan had an difficulty in eliminating Ray Derr of Philadelphia by the wide margin of 8 and 7 but Barnes appeared to be the lower in his match with Larry Nabholz of Lima, Ohio, until they had played their second shots on the 36th hole and there the sturdy youngster overtook him on his second shot to the green. Thus the finals bring together two veterans of the game, Hagan, who sprang into prominence 10 years ago by winning the national open title at Chicago and Barnes of England who has been prominent in golf for many years but has captured few titles in comparison with Hagan's record which includes the possession at least once of nearly every open title in the world.

CLASSIC PLAYS OF THE GRIDIRON

Quarterback Made Fair Catches Throughout Game Until His Chance Came

BY FRANK B. BRIDGES
Director of Athletics, Baylor University, Texas

All afternoon "Bill" Coffey played possum and waited his chance. All afternoon he caught punts without attempting to run them back. Each time he signaled a fair catch.

Finally, late in the last quarter, the opportunity for which "Bill" had been watching came and he ran. Oh, how he ran! That run I regard as one of the greatest I have ever seen in football.

Coffey was playing quarterback for Baylor against the great Texas university team in our big game of the year on Nov. 10, 1923. He was only a kid, a sophomore weighing but 135 pounds. But fast, a great blocker and possessed of rare ability for remembering what he is told and then doing it.

The Saturday before tackling Texas "U." Baylor had engaged in a grueling scoreless tie with Texas A. & M. Coffey had taken considerable punishment in the A. & M. game and we needed him in there every minute against Texas "U." to run the team. Thus the instructions to signal for a fair catch on every punt and watch for a chance to catch the opposing ends off guard. That chance came when having watched Coffey fair catch all afternoon, the Texas ends loaded down the field on a punt late in the game. The punt was low, made to order. The time had come to run and Coffey knew it. So he took that punt on the dead run and was between the ends before they realized what was happening. Then, cutting to the right, the possum came to life, sidestepped, pivoted and finally broke into the clear.

Baylor had been playing Texas to a standstill. The score stood 7-7 and it looked liked another touchdown, when Coffey struck a sandhole, slipped and was downed from behind on the eight yard line. Unable to gain and with only two minutes left to play, we attempted to kick goal and failed. But Coffey is not to blame; that we fell short of victory, for he had put us in position to score and all but turned the trick alone by running 62 yards through the great Texas team.

That run demonstrates the danger of letting down for even an instant. One moment off guard may offset a whole afternoon of alertness.

SENATORS TAKE LEAD WHEN YANKEES LOSE

Dodgers Now Game and a Half Back Pirates Two and a Half Games Back of League Leading Giants

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. (AP)—Washington again took a one game lead over New York in the American League today by winning from St. Louis as the Yankees lost to Detroit. The Giants, by beating Chicago, increased their advantage to one and one-half games over Brooklyn which lost one game back of the Robins and two and one-half behind New York. The Senators smothered six Browns' pitchers for a 15 to 9 victory. The Yankees led the Tigers 5 to 3 until the ninth when Jones was batted from the box. Dugan's wild throw led to the winning run of a 6 to 5 count in the ninth.

The Giants easily defeated Chicago 10 to 4.

Yde held the Robins safe while the Pirates batted Ehrhardt from the box for a 4 to 2 decision in the first game of the important series.

C. C. SCHUREMAN
PLUMBING AND HEATING
220 North East Street

He's the greatest catcher in baseball.

It was Ray Schalk, famous backstop of the Chicago White Sox, talking about Muddy Ruel of Washington.

It struck me as a remarkable tribute coming from so brilliant a catcher as Schalk.

Several great plays by Ruel had played havoc with the White Sox's chances, while his timely hitting had made a Washington victory possible.

A wonder catch of a foul tip, which seemed a physical impossibility when he started after the ball, caused Schalk to exclaim, "Ruel has the right system," continued Schalk, "he is in the game every minute and goes after every ball, regardless of the score."

"Not because I play the position, but the catcher is the inspiration of a club. His spirit is largely the spirit of the team. Ruel has helped put the pennant fight in Washington."

The compliment that Schalk paid Ruel took me back about six years. Ruel at the time was an ambitious youngster. Schalk the wonder man of baseball. That was in 1918.

The previous season the Chicago club had won the American League pennant and beaten the Giants in the world series. Schalk was the spark-plug of the club.

Some idea of Schalk's great worth as a catcher can be gleaned from the averages. The figures show that for 11 consecutive years he has caught 100 or more games. This season has broken this remarkable record. Injuries have kept him under the 100 mark.

In a certain series at New York in 1918, Schalk performed brilliantly in every department of the game. The first two games of the series had been decided by his superior play.

Sitting on the New York bench prior to the third game, Muddy Ruel, then with the Yankees, happened to be next to me. In some way the conversation shifted to Schalk and his greatness as a catcher.

"If I ever develop into half as good a catcher as that fellow, I'll be satisfied," said Ruel.

"He's my ideal. They say one should be original but I don't see how a catcher could improve on Schalk's style. He's worth while imitating."

In a great many ways Muddy Ruel is a second Ray Schalk as to style, mannerisms and spirit.

Eight years have passed and the catcher Ruel set out to imitate, pronounces the Washington backstop the greatest catcher in baseball.

Rather a strange coincidence.

RAINY WEATHER HAS EFFECT ON WHEAT

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Rain and colder weather that interfered with threshing and the crop movement both in the Canadian northwest and Montana tended to make wheat prices today average higher. Closing quotations here for wheat were firm at the same as yesterday's finish to be up
December $1.33 1/2 to $1.37 and May $1.39 1/2 to $1.39 1/2, with corn unchanged to 7c down, oats varying from 1c decline to 1c advance and provisions unchanged.

It was pointed out that only 2,125,000 bushels of wheat were delivered at Canadian country elevators yesterday as against 5-2,970,000 bushels a year ago and that just 320 carloads arrived at Winnipeg, a falling off of about 1,200 cars compared with the corresponding day last year.
Export buying of wheat today proved apparently rather slow to offset hedging sales and it was said that Duluth No. 1 Northern wheat was much cheaper than any Canadian wheat at present available.

Besides, trans-Atlantic shipment from this country by way of the Gulf of Mexico continued heavy and reports emphasizing inadequacy of food supplies in France attracting considerable notice.

Corn and oats were relatively weak, influenced more or less by reports of a little improvement of corn crop conditions over the Northern portions of the belt.
The forecast, however, was for wet and cooler weather

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Speculative interest in today's stock market centered in a limited number of specialties, which were bid up briskly on reports of special developments. Bear traders who endeavored to create a political scare simultaneously with the opening of the LaFollette campaign in the east made little headway, the few recessions among standard industrial being limited to fractions.

Pivotal industrial showed inconsequential changes. U. S.
Steel common sold down to 10 3/4, but good buying support was provided and the stock rallied to 10 1/2, where it was unchanged on the day. Baldwin closed unchanged at 12 1/2 after having fluctuated between 12 1/4 and 12 3/4.
American Can showed a small fractional loss at 12 1/4; rails held relatively steady with good buying noted in Canadian Pacific, International Railways of Central America preferred, and some of the western carriers.

Call money ruled unchanged at two percent.

U. S. CONSTITUTION NEAR SACRED THING

Forefathers Wise In Safe Guarding Methods of Amendment—John J. Reeve Told Rotary Club How Measure Preserves People's Rights.

John J. Reeve believes that the constitution of the United States should be treated as a sacred thing to the extent that there should be no amendment except as the result of the mature thought of the people. In other words, Mr. Reeve feels that the somewhat difficult provisions for amending the constitution are indeed wise and have proved a safeguard for the interest of the people.

This was the statement made to Rotarians in an informal address in observance of Constitution Day at the Friday luncheon of the club, held at the Pacific hotel.

R. W. Woolston presided during the session and there was mass singing under the leadership of Albert C. Metcalf before Mr. Reeve's address.

Announcement was made that quite a number of Rotarians wish to attend the state convocation to be held in Springfield next Friday. In view of this fact, the directors decided that the next week's luncheon will be held Thursday noon instead of Friday.

Yesterday's guests were Mark Fenton, industrial commissioner, Illinois Chamber of Commerce; D. M. Berry, a Rotarian of Indianapolis, Iowa, and W. H. Hunt, of Rawlins, Wyo.

In beginning his address, Mr. Reeve said that the constitution as written came about because of the needs of the colonists. The proposal for a constitution was made by John Hancock a number of years before there was an assembling of the colonists and the adoption of the constitution. The wisdom of the forefathers in providing the constitution cannot be amended except by an act of congress submitted to the states for ratification and approval by 75 percent is shown. Mr. Reeve said, because history readily proves that public sentiment is never right when at its height. At such a time public sentiment is tinged with prejudice or other unwholesome influence.

Many Proposals

Many attempts have been made to amend the constitution and there never has been a session of congress without its bills proposing amendment but rarely have the proposals gotten beyond the halls of congress. In this connection Mr. Reeve referred to the gateway proposal which will be voted upon at the next national election, which would make it possible to submit two amendments to the constitution at one time. The speaker indicated his belief that the present provision is the best for the people and that the constitution as it stands is indeed a bulwark of safety.

It was never intended, Mr.

Reeve said, that the legislative or administrative departments of government should tell the judicial department what to do although there have sometimes been efforts along this line. He paid tribute to the supreme court with the statement that thru all the years it has been above reproach.

Then Mr. Reeve severely arraigned those who favor the plan which would make it possible by legislative enactment to overrule supreme court action. This program, the speaker said, is one of the most dangerous ever promulgated in this country and that its approval would rob the people of the protection of life and property and liberty taking away the right of free speech and the other inalienable rights that are now guaranteed by the constitution.

Attack on Liberty

"Senator LaFollette's plan," Mr. Reeve said, "is a back door method of destroying the liberties of the nation." In citing instances to show the fickleness of public sentiment and policy Mr. Reeve recalled the great effort made to separate the Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific railroads, an effort which almost caused disaster to both of these great systems, the attack being made on the theory that they were operating together in restraint of trade. That was only twenty years ago and now we see the effort to make a combination of certain railroads compulsory in the interest of economy and efficiency and so in the interest of the people.

Mr. Reeve decried the criticism especially from the clergy, of Judge Caverly's decision in the Loeb-Leopold case. He said that the judge had the authority to make the decision and no doubt reached it conscientiously after full consideration of all the evidence. This being the case, he said, criticism from citizens tended to build up mob violence and disregard for the judiciary. He had a word of condemnation too for the church inquiry into conditions in Williamson county, an inquiry which resulted in reflection on the courts.

In closing Mr. Reeve said that there was a disposition nowadays to try to make men honest and trustworthy and wise thru legislation and that it cannot be done. In this continuous talk about enforcement too often there is forgetfulness about law observance.

"There is no room in this country," Mr. Reeve said, for the red flag unless that color waves to the breeze along with the blue and white."

"MISS JACKSONVILLE" MAY REPRESENT CITY

Products Exposition Asks That Young Lady be Named to be in Local Booth and to Sell Tickets to Big Display.

"Miss Jacksonville" will be the title borne by a young lady who will be selected to represent the city in the booth which its exhibits will occupy at the Illinois Products Exposition in Chicago. The state Chamber of Commerce, which is promoting the enterprise, has asked that a local young woman be chosen to sell tickets here to those wishing to attend the exposition, and also to be at the local booth on the exposition floor. Other cities in Illinois have already made selections.

There is a contest on in the state and the young lady selling the most tickets will receive an automobile. There are also minor prizes. In Chicago fully 150 girls are competing, and they will be judged as individuals, a fact which is expected to give the down-state girls, an equal chance. "Miss Jacksonville," and her sisters from other cities having exhibits at the exposition, will be guests of honor at the banquet given by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

COMMANDER'S BADGE PRESENTED MRS. GIST

Friends of Mrs. Lillian Hurlburt Gist, a graduate of the Woman's College with the class of '75, will be interested in the account of the presentation to Mrs. Gist of a Departmental Commander's Badge, given recently at the 15th Annual Reunion of the Black Hawk County Veterans Association, which was held in Cedar Falls, Iowa, during the first week of September. The presentation one of the most impressive features of the reunion, gives Mrs. Gist the distinction of being the only woman in the United States to receive such a badge, which was to have gone to her husband, Dr. W. W. Gist, whose death occurred suddenly on June 28th, 1923, just twenty-four hours after he had been installed as the Iowa G. A. R. Commander at the Fort Dodge reunion.

Mrs. Gist expects to spend the winter in Honolulu, returning in the Spring, to attend the annual Alumni Day at the Illinois Woman's College.

THE BIG DANCE AUTO INN TONIGHT

SPEAKER SAYS CITY CAN GET FACTORIES

Man From State Organization Addresses Local Business Men—Advices Systematic Survey and Effort to Secure Plants For Which City is Suited.

"There is a big industrial development coming to Illinois, and there is no reason why Jacksonville should not have its share," was the opinion expressed by Mark Fenton, industrial representative of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting of business men here last night. Mr. Fenton addressed representatives of the Commercial Division, the Industrial committee and the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce. He outlined the general industrial and business conditions which prevail in the country at the present time. He stated that manufacturers are coming to appreciate the fact that small factory units located near the source of raw material or the consuming market are more to be desired now than mass production in the larger industrial centers. This is true because transportation facilities are less congested and goods are more readily moved under the latter plan.

Many of the factories in the east now desire to follow the center of population westward, and they are looking toward the Mississippi Valley for locations. The center of population is now only 150 miles east of Jacksonville, and it will remain in Illinois for the next fifty years.

Jacksonville, according to Mr. Fenton, has a number of industrial advantages, and although the city already has a number of thriving industries, there is no reason why others might not be induced to come here, as they could do so well or better here than elsewhere. The four railroads on which the city is located offer industry a decided advantage. The speaker recommended an industrial survey of the city, in order to secure accurate information as to all the things which factory owners consider in locating their plants. Then there should be a dignified attempt to sell the city to manufacturers who are contemplating a change, especially to industries which the city is best fitted to accommodate.

Mr. Fenton discouraged the offering of financial inducements to factories to locate in a city. He said the number of "boom towns" is decreasing each day. The bona fide manufacturer is suspicious of the city which has to buy its industries, being afraid it does not possess the advantages which will bring it the best class of factories. Industries, as a rule, move for two reasons, either for purposes of expansion, or to get money for their projects.

The speaker counseled against Chambers of Commerce undertaking to finance factory projects, or to sell stocks to promote new and untried industries. He advised the industrial promoters to seek out the factories best fitted for the town and those in that line which are contemplating change. Then there should be a systematic effort at salesmanship, the claims of the city being put plainly and persistently before the factory in question.

VERMONT PILGRIMAGE OF INTEREST TO I. W. C.

Of interesting historical connection with the Illinois Woman's College is the pilgrimage to Newbury, Vermont, where Montpelier Seminary was founded in 1834 which will be made from Montpelier, the present site of the school, on the fifteenth of this month marking the nineteenth birthday of this Methodist institution.

Friends, alumni and former associates of the Seminary will gather at 11 o'clock on the day of the journey and after lunch will start on their trip. Appropriate ceremonies and speeches will be given on their arrival in Newbury.

The first principal of Montpelier Seminary, or rather Newbury Seminary as it was in those early days, was the Rev. Charles Adams. Mr. Adams was principal of Newbury Seminary for five years from 1834-39; a little later he was also principal of Wesleyan University at Middletown, Massachusetts, one of the most noted of the early schools of Methodism. In 1835 he was appointed president of the Illinois Woman's College, then Illinois Conference Female College. He was president for ten years, during which time was one of the most difficult periods of Woman's College history, including the fire of 1852. He resigned in 1848 and was succeeded by Dr. Wm. H. DeMotte. Dr. Adams spent his later years in Washington, D. C., where he died at the advanced age of 82, January 19, 1890.

LOCAL FIRM AIDS IN ECONOMIC EDUCATION

J. Capps & Sons Distribute Reprints of Series of Practical Talks by Prominent Banker.

A new but effective method of making the people acquainted with everyday principles of economics is being pursued by J. Capps & Sons of this city. Recently "The Nation's Business," the official organ of the United States Chamber of Commerce, published a series of articles entitled "Things to Tell Your Men," written by George E. Roberts, vice president of the National City Bank of New York. The officials of the Capps plant liked these articles so well that they have ordered several thousand reprints and have placed them in various public places in the city for free distribution. The articles are reprinted in the form of the magazine in which they appeared and present an attractive appearance.

The series deals with practical phases of industry. "America has been dubbed 'a nation of economic illiterates,'" and it was the purpose of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in publishing them, to disperse some of this illiteracy. Mr. Roberts calls his articles "Talks on Homespun Economics," and he has written them in a style which all can understand. A list of the chapter headings in the series will give some idea of what it contains:

Team Work the Keynote.
What Production Is and Who Produces.
Four Factors in Production.
The Source of All Capital—Saving.
The following letter from the local firm by whose courtesy the reprints are distributed, accompanies each copy:

Dear Friend:
Mr. George E. Roberts is perhaps the clearest thinker and writer on Economic subjects of the present time. His recent articles appearing in the "Nation's Business" have so appealed to us, that we want our friends to read them too. We have secured a reprint of five of these articles on "Homespun Economics" and take pleasure in presenting you a copy.

Sound thinking and a right understanding of Economic laws, will serve to settle strife and misunderstanding in our relation one with another. In our social and industrial life and especially now in politics is a clear, common sense knowledge of Economic law essential to our peace and prosperity.

So we hope you will enjoy and profit in reading these articles, and then read them again. They will help make us all better citizens of our common country. J. Capps & Son, Ltd.

EARLY MORGAN TAXES MUCH TO BE DESIRED

An interesting document that throws light on the cost of living in Morgan county in the early days, has recently come to light. It is a tax receipt showing the total taxes paid by one, Stephen Green, for the year 1836. Mr. Green paid taxes on 239.88 acres of Morgan county land, and he turned into the county treasury the magnificent sum of $3.59 for the privilege of owning this amount of land in the county.

The total taxes on such a tract of land in the county today would be about $215.89, the average rate for the county being 90c per acre. Could the citizens who lived and worked in the good year 1836 have foreseen this jump in the totals on tax receipts of the future, they would have had no thought of complaining of the taxes they had to pay. But, "them days are gone forever."

LOCAL BARBER RETURNS FROM CONVENTION

Louis Leurig Returns From Ten Day International Barbers' Meet in Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Leurig have returned to the city from Indianapolis, Indiana, where Mr. Leurig was in attendance as a delegate from the local union to the International Convention of Barbers. The convention was in session ten days.

The International Convention meets every five years and the one held in Indianapolis was the fifteenth meet. Nine hundred delegates were in attendance and it was thought by many present to be the best ever held.

Several new laws for the constitution of the order were passed among them being a law admitting women barbers. Another new provision which was passed and which has been before conventions for the past 15 years was that making a member once a member, always a member. The sick and death benefits were also raised.

Mr. Leurig stated that six conventions were in session in Indianapolis during his first week in that city and he witnessed on three parades, a huge parade on Defense Test Day, the Shriner's parade and a parade of Red Men.
